Officers Seize $18,000 In Gambling Equipment In Raid on Route 30-N Inn

RAIDERS FIND STEEL-LINED LOOKOUT ROOM

Uncover Luxurious Furnishings In Rooms Above Mayfair Tavern, West of City.

RAID QUIETLY STAGED

Roulette Wheel, Craps Tables, Slot Machines Carted To County Jail.

Dropping down on the Mayfair Inn, eight miles west of Mansfield on U. S. 30-N last night, state and county enforcement officers found an estimated $18,000 worth of gambling equipment in a luxuriously furnished second floor room.

Entrance to the room was a separate stairway guarded by a steel-lined bullet-proof lookout room.

Charged with keeping and exhibiting gambling devices for gain as a result of the raid was George Talbot, 38, who gave his address as Lorain. He is to be arraigned before Common Pleas Judge C. H. Huston possibly tomorrow, court attaches said.

Headed by Chief Deputy Sheriff Glenn Freeman, a posse of officers including sheriff's deputies J. R. Hetler and J. D. Whitcomb, and State Liquor Inspector John Barlow made the raid at 6 p. m., after Barlow had first visited the Mayfair Inn during the afternoon on what he termed "a routine inspection."

Arriving at the tavern, Barlow said he called Talbot outside and asked him to admit the sheriff's men to the upstairs quarters.

Talbot hesitated, according to Freeman, but when the officers procured a hammer and screwdriver and started to remove the hinges from the door at the bottom of the stairway, he produced keys and let them into the upstairs suite.

In the main room the officers found a roulette table, two dice tables, a card table, and nine slot machines. There were two quarter machines, two dime machines, and five nickel slot devices.

Hetler said there were about a dozen people in the tavern downstairs when the posse arrived but the gambling quarters were dark. Poker chips were spread out on the "blackjack" table but there was no one there to use them.

Business in the first floor tavern went on as usual while the raiders were at work on the second floor. Some of the customers were not even aware of what was

TRAIN DERAILED

Engineer Killed In Accident Near Rochester, N. Y.

ROCHESTER, N. Y.—(INS)—An engineer was killed and three crew members were injured today when a New York Central passenger train was derailed 12 miles east of Rochester after striking a freight car at Wayneport coaling station.

The engineer was Robert McColgan of Buffalo and the injured were two mail clerks and the fireman.

The wreck occurred when the train, bound for Chicago from New York, struck the derailed freight car as it swept past the coal station at 35 miles an hour. The engine of the passenger train and four mail and baggage cars were thrown from the tracks.

The main line of the New York Central was tied up by the wreck and traffic was re-routed.

EAT GOLDFISH

Seagulls, Blown Inland, Have Sumptuous Banquet.

WINDSOR, Ont.—(INS)—Driven inland because of the high winds and cold weather sweeping Lake Erie, a score of hungry seagulls pounced on the big lagoon in Jackson park and fed sumptuously on the goldfish.

Park laborers today estimated at least 1,000 fish were gobbled up before the birds were driven away with sticks. Five hundred remaining fish were removed to the safety of a conservatory.

Gambling Equipment Taken In Raid on Tavern

These pictures show a gambling raid and some of the equipment seized by officers as they swooped down on the Mayfair Inn, on Route 30-N, west of Mansfield. In No. 1, Deputy Sheriff J. D. Whitcomb tests a wall in the stairway leading to the second floor of the establishment. The small dark spot at the left is a peephole, covered by glass an inch thick. In No. 2 are slot machines and a roulette table. No. 3, a roulette wheel. No. 4, chairs and tables, loaded on a truck for the ride from the Mayfair to the county jail. In. No. 5, Deputy J. R. Hetler looks over some chips. in No. 6, the framework of what could have been used for a craps table.

CIO'S WALKOUT PERILS SET-UP FOR MEDIATION

President Studies New Effort To Settle Dispute While Army Gets Ready.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—While the mediation board he created to curb defense strikes began collapsing on his shoulders, President Roosevelt today made plans for the army to seize the nation's coal mines if John L. Lewis calls a new coal strike Friday.

The very existence of the mediation board was threatened when Phil Murray, CIO president, and Thomas Kennedy, secretary-treasurer of John L. Lewis' mine union, resigned from it because the board voted Monday, 9 to 2, against recommending a union shop in coal mines owned by big steel corporations.

Other members of the board privately conceded that it could not function if the CIO withdrew its support.

Murray, so angry that he pounded his desk with his fists as he talked, explained that he and Kennedy were quitting the board because the decision in the coal dispute made "it impossible for labor to retain any confidence in its future actions."

President Roosevelt, while exploring the possibilities of making a new eleventh-hour attempt at mediation, also awaited a report from army intelligence officers whether troops could take over the mines. A detail of intelligence officers, it was reliably reported, moved quietly into Pittsburgh early Sunday, set up headquarters, and immediately obtained from steel companies blue prints of the mines, maps of coal areas, and charts of railroad lines moving coal.

In case Mr. Roosevelt uses troops, it was expected that he would appeal to miners to disregard any strike call and remain at work under protection of the army. There were reports in two different quarters in Washington that the president was considering the possibility of making a radio address Friday night on the coal crisis, but White House spokes-

CITY ROCKED

Peoria Feels Blast at Powder Plant 15 Miles Away.

PEORIA, Ill.—(INS)—A terrific explosion occurred today at the huge Western Powder Manufacturing company plant at Edwards, 15 miles northwest of Peoria.

The blast rocked buildings in Peoria and was said to have been felt at Toluca, 64 miles distant.

The explosion was reported to have occurred in the "corning press."

There were no immediate reports as to casualties.

County police hurried to the scene, but it was reported they were met at the plant entrance by a federal officer who said the plant was under federal supervision and barred their entrance.

Soviets Claim Axis Bogs Down On All Fronts

London Lists Drastic Cut In Losses on Atlantic, Reveals Hess' Story of Hitler's Plan to Starve Out Britain Instead of Invading.

(By United Press)

Great Britain and Soviet Russia today reported important progress in the war against Adolf Hitler's armed forces in the Atlantic and on the eastern front.

In the battle of the Atlantic, Britain's spokesman said that with American aid the Allied shipping losses in the last four months, ending with October, had been reduced to an average of 180,000 tons a month or less than one-fifth of the losses for the previous four months when all factors are considered.

An indirect suggestion that overseas operations against the Axis—such as an invasion of the continent—might have to wait until 1943 was given officially by the London spokesman, when he said that Britain might in 1943 "be possessed of large quantities of ships which will enable overseas operations which are utterly beyond British resources at present."

On the eastern front, the Russians reported that the Axis armies were bogged down on all sectors with the exception of Tula, 100 miles south of Moscow, where heavy fighting was in progress, and of Rostov, gateway to the Caucasus, where the Germans made slight gains at a tremendous cost in men and material. In general, however, London and Moscow claimed the enemy was halted in winter snows and sub-zero temperature and Berlin made no claim of important gains.

Britain was warned officially, however, that Rudolf Hess, No. 3 Nazi who now is a war prisoner, had disclosed that Hitler was depending primarily on starvation rather than direct attack to "bring us to our knees" in 1941 and that "these hopes have been dashed."

"This only increases his need to invade us as soon as he can screw up his courage and make arrangements to take the plunge," the official statement added.

That was the first official revelation in regard to information given out by Hess after his sensational airplane flight from Germany and parachute landing in Scotland and it obviously was designed to remind Britons that their greatest test is yet to come.

British claims of mounting strength were demonstrated in many different fields this week, including a statement by Alfred Duff-Cooper, cabinet representative in the Far East, that British battleships already are speeding toward the Pacific.

Informed sources in London said that the British were seeking a clearer outline of American policy in regard to the Far East so that they would be able to make important decisions in regard to aiding Russia and to defending the Middle East.

The Japanese press renewed its hostile tone toward America and Britain without awaiting outcome of the journey of Saburo Kurusu,

FINLAND SPURNS U. S. ON PEACE

Turns Down American Warning Against Continuing Her Battle Against Russia.

(By Associated Press)

HELSINKI — Finland today turned down a United States warning to withdraw from the war against Russia and insisted she was still fighting a defensive war against the Soviet.

The decision was made public in a note issued after a lengthy session of the government, Finland's answer to the warning disclosed Nov. 3 in Washington by U. S. Secretary of State Hull.

Finland, the Helsinki government advised the United States, does not want to continue the fight against Russia any longer than her vital security demands but she cannot expose herself to future peril by artificially interrupting military operations before the objective is wholly realized.

The note said the defensive nature of the struggle was not altered by the Finnish army's effort to "make harmless and man the enemy's attack bases beyond the 1939 borders."

The government said the United States had assumed that Finland's freedom of action "and even her independence have been imperilled by Germany."

"Finland herself has no reason to assume she is in any such danger," the note added.

It explained it was a coincidence that Germany took up arms against Russia, a coincidence which saved Finland from standing alone again in a fight which "would have denoted the doom of Finland and the entire north."

Finland, since going to war against Russia last June 26, has regained substantially all the territory she was forced to concede to Russia after the 1939-40 winter war, but the

Guardsmen Put on Snappy Show at Highlight of Armistice Day Observance.

Mansfield's company of Ohio State Guardsmen held the spotlight last night as the city's war veterans' and patriotic organizations climaxed their Armistice observance with ceremonies at Central park and a parade through the business district.

A shivering crowd estimated at 2,000 persons formed a big circle around the 50 Guardsmen as they went through snappy retreat ceremonies in North Main street west of the park. It was one of the few public appearances of the Guard unit since it was organized last summer. The unit is under the command of Capt. Glenn L. Bierly.

Mayor Adds His Protest to Plan for Route 13 Wood Span

Contending that he did not want to hold up the City Council's resolution giving Richland county commissioners the "go ahead" signal to replace the temporary wooden bridge on North Main street, (State Route 13) over Touby's run with another wooden structure Mayor William J. Locke today returned the resolution to council unsigned.

The mayor said "In all probabilities I will not sign the resolution although I have 10 days in which to do so."

He indicated his displeasure "that a wooden bridge should be built in a city the size of Mansfield," but stated he did not want to block the resolution.

Council's approval was put on the resolution in an adjourned session last Friday night when, after arguing over the matter for two hours, a vote resulted in six members consenting to the commissioners' proposal, and one member, George C. Kyle, declining to vote for the measure. Two councilmen, Fred Miller, ill at home, and Lester D. Hunter, were not present.

The plan for building a steel-reinforced concrete structure over the North Main street run was abandoned by the commissioners when the state announced that it would pay half of the cost only if a $40,000 bridge was constructed. That figure was substantially more than the state's original estimate of the cost.

Visit To Relatives Ends In Tragedy For Ohio Family.

IRONTON — (INS) — A trip to visit Ironton relatives ended today in tragedy for a Washington C. H. couple and their four children.

Two of the children were killed and the other two and the parents injured when their automobile plunged from a county road near Chesapeake, east of Ironton.

Those killed were Kenneth Woolum, 3, and his year-old baby sister, Elsie. Charles Woolum, 30; his wife, Amy, 25, and their two other children, Pauline, 5, and Ray, 6, were taken to an Ironton hospital where they were treated for cuts and abrasions. Mrs. Woolum was reported in serious condition.

The accident occurred on a curve on Getaway hill. The turn is known as "death trap" because of previous accidents there.

Open Debate on Repeal of Combat Zone Legislation

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—The house opens debate today on repeal of the combat zone provisions of the neutrality act, with the result hinging upon the extent of Democratic defection against President Roosevelt's foreign policy.

Return of scores of members to the city today was the signal for intensification of the drive of both administration leaders and foes for votes for the showdown expected late tomorrow.

A rising tide of mail was reported by many members as the non-interventionist campaign to induce people throughout the nation to wire and write congressman began to bear fruit.

Administration leaders confidently insisted that the house will accept the senate amendments to the original armed ship bill, with predictions of the margin ranging from 20 to 75 vote.

The hastily formed organization of foes of the measure, headed by Rep. Knutson (R., Minn.) was summoned into session to revise new strategy to counteract the powerful administration campaign.

The house will debate the senate amendments for eight hours, under a special rule, with Rep. Bloom (D., N. Y.) chairman of the foreign affairs committee directing the administration floor battle.

special "peace" envoy, to Washington, where it was believed his chances were slim of getting the United States to accept the Japanese new order program.

One Tokyo newspaper reported that the Russians were bolstering their defenses in outer Mongolia, presumably against a possible Japanese blow, and that the United States had sent 30 airplanes and 200 trucks to aid the Chinese in keeping open the Burma road supply line to Chungking.

The possibility of a new crisis in American and British relations with Finland also was renewed as a result of a Finnish note rejecting Washington's warning that Finland should take advantage of a Russian proposal for a negotiated peace.

Denying receipt of such a proposal, the Finns said that they would fight on until their future safety was "guaranteed" and "all danger removed." A Russian spokesman said that German pressure was forcing the Finns to continue the war despite strong internal demands for peace.

In Berlin a German spokesman, commenting on Finland's rejection of the United States warning regarding peace negotiations, said that it was "a fitting slap in the face to the hysterical old man in the White House."

Nazis Claim They Are At Gate of Caucasus

BERLIN — (AP) — The high command announced today that German soldiers had reached the narrow strait south of Kerch in the Crimea — whence they can look upon the Caucasus—but elsewhere on the chill, gray front war reports resembled those of the inactive Maginot and Siegfried lines in the winter of 1939-40.

A high command officer said the weather "still is very bad" on the stagnated Moscow front, with a cold drizzle hampering operations. Before Leningrad the Germans sat tight in their trenches.

SS (Elite Guard) troops were said already to have donned white "ghost" jackets to blend with the snowy landscape.

One DNB report told of a single small scouting unit rading Soviet trenches and destroying observation posts and tanks.

The rush to the strait south of Kerch, which is but two miles wide in places, was said to have been accomplished by "sharp pursuit fighting."

men said they knew of no plans to reserve time on the air.

Lewis, now backed by Murray, called a meeting of the entire UMW policy committee of 200 to meet in Washington Friday to decide whether to call a new strike. Lewis has set a deadline—Saturday midnight—for granting of his demands for a union shop. However, a strike call probably would not become effective until the beginning of the work week Monday.

Calling of the policy committee meeting was one of a series of developments in a stirring day in Washington which again brought Mr. Roosevelt and Lewis close to a showdown. There was only one remote hope. Murray, in a letter to the president containing his resignation as a mediation board member, said that the CIO "still believes" in peaceful mediation. His statement put it up to the White House to suggest means of further arbitration.

The mine union has two courses open to it at the conference Friday. It can vote a strike of the 53,000 miners who actually work in the company owned coal mines, or it can call out all 400,000 miners in the soft coal fields. There was little likelihood, it was said, that the UMW would back down from its stand.

National Mediation Board Chairman William H. Davis, asked whether he thought Lewis would call a new strike, answered: "God, I hope not."

His remark was made as he announced the majority and minority reports explaining the board's action in voting against the union shop. The majority report was signed by two AFL members of the mediation board, four employer representatives and three public representatives, the latter including Davis

Murray and Kennedy cast the two votes in favor of a union shop, and the CIO president accused the two AFL members of "arch treachery" in voting against the UMW. It was reported that Murray had received assurances from AFL leaders that they were behind his union shop demand.

Operators, Miners Doubt Work Stoppage

PITTSBURGH —(AP)— Prominent operators and humble miners joined today in predicting that any stoppage of coal digging in the steel company-owned "captive" mines because of the union shop controversy will be short-lived if it even develops.

"John L. Lewis now has the opportunity, both to save his face in this controversy, and to get the spotlight for one of his dramatic acts," declared one of the leading commercial producers, all of whom are keeping a quiet, albeit fearful, watch on the situation.

After the program there, it moved down North Main street to Fourth, west on Fourth to Mulberry, and south on Mulberry to Park avenue west.

Despite the biting cold, several thousand persons watched the parade in silence along the route. Heading the line of march were the American Legion flag and gun bearers; then came the Legion drum and bugle corps, State Guardsmen, Legion members, the Baku Grotto marching unit, Senioh high school band and band majorettes. J. R. "Bud" Harrington, manager of the Municipal airport, and about 20 instructors and pilots at the port, the Legion auxiliary members, Red Cross representatives, and ambulances owned by the Jones, Wappner, Geiger and Finefrock funeral homes.

Bringing up the rear was a Mansfield fire truck manned by nine city firemen who explained by means of a large placard that they were veterans of the first World war.

A novel entry in the parade was a marching replica of the Red Cross placard which shows a soldier, marine, air corps pilot, sailor and Red Cross nurse marching abreast.

Preceding the parade, four Mansfield Gold Star mothers, members of the State Guard, Mothers' club, and Spanish war veterans were guests at a dinner at the Legion home. Approximately 250 attended the dinner which was served by the Legion auxiliary. Gold Star mothers at the dinner were Mrs Bernice Davis, Mrs. Priscilla Teeters, Mrs Rosa Dewitt, and Mrs. Elizabeth Geyer.

R. B. Gardner past department commander of the American Legion, was grand marshal of the parade while Hollis D. Moorhead assisted with the arrangements.

Rev. Grover E. Swoyer, pastor of the First Lutheran church, spoke at Armistice ceremonies yesterday at the Johnny Appleseed junior high school. (In Berlin, the German news agency, DNB reported that the note said no guarantees for a new peace had been given Finland, and the Finnish government "cannot be of the opinion that Finnish armed forces could in any way threaten United States security.")

The Finnish government told the United States that the area she wanted the Finnish army to evacuate (apparently back to the 1939 border) was recognized as essentially Finnish by the Russians themselves during 1939-40 when it was annexed to the remainder of Finland in a treaty with the puppet Finnish government set up by Moscow.

taking place in the rooms immediately above them.

Included in the upstairs layout besides the main rooms were two rest rooms, a combined office and dressing room for floor show performers, two comparatively barren card rooms, and what looked like a "watch tower."

Outfitted with three small observation windows equipped with one-inch thick bullet-proof glass, the room was lined to a height of five feet on door and walls with quarter-inch steel boiler plates.

Under one of the windows looking down on the entrance stairway were three buzzers that controlled automatic locks on the doors to the stairway and foyer leading to the gambling rooms.

Deputy Hetler supervised the job of dismantling the gambling equipment which a Mansfield hauling concern packed onto a truck and hauled to county jail.

The $18,000 valuation was placed on the equipment by Talbot, officers said. Deputies declined to make a dollar-and-cents estimate but said they figured the equipment "was pretty expensive."

Sheriff Frank E. Robinson was in Wooster at the time of the raid but he ordered Freeman to proceed with the raid when the deputy telephoned him that Barlow had reported the presence of gambling equipment at the Mayfair.

Barlow told the deputies yesterday that in the course of a routine inspection of the tavern at 3 p. m. yesterday, he asked Talbot to go over the entire premises with him and that he found the gambling equipment on the second floor.

At 5 p. m. he made an informal report of his discovery to the sheriff's office. He filed no formal complaint.

Freeman telephoned his superior immediately.

"The sheriff told be to raid the place at once," Freeman said.

All the gambling equipment was loaded on the truck and the raid was over by 9:30 p. m.

Besides the gaming tables officers confiscated several dozen boxes of poker chips, chip racks, croupier sticks, and other assorted paraphernalia.

"The office safe was locked and we didn't find any records of how much business the place had been doing," Hetler said.

Formal charges were not placed against Talbot until 11 a. m. today but he was taken to county jail at 8 p. m. last night by Deputies Freeman and Whitcomb and Inspector Barlow. There, he asked to use the telephone and after making a number of calls arranged for his release under a $500 property bond signed by Pete DiSanze, owner of the Greystone night club. The bond record listed his offense as "possession of gambling devices."

Ralph A. Hughes, clerk of municipal court, accepted the bond after he had been summoned to the jail by city police who had been notified of Talbot's arrest by sheriff's deputies.

Today, Prosecutor Harold A. Lutz termed the accepting of bond before a formal charge had been filed "irregular."

He ordered Talbot re-arrested on the charge of possession and exhibiting of gambling devices for gain which was signed by Sheriff Robinson.

Robinson said he expected to make the re-arrest this afternoon.

AAA PAYMENTS TO RICHLAND'S FARMERS HIKED

They'll Get Two and a Half Cents More on Wheat But Cent Less on Corn.

Richland county farmers who participate in the federal AAA crop program next year will receive two and a half cents per bushel more in wheat conservation payments and one cent less per bushel in corn payments, G. L. Taylor, county AAA chairman, said today.

In a move to effect further curtailment of wheat production next year, Taylor said the conservation payments will go up to 10½ cents per bushel. Payments on corn will be eight cents a bushel as compared with nine cents this year.

Conservation payments are made to participating farmers who keep their acreage within their quotas and follow soil-building practices outlined by AAA officials.

Taylor said federal loans will be offered on soybeans for the first time this year. Loans will be granted at the rate of 98 cents per bushel on No. 2 beans at the warehouse and $1.05 per bushel on beans at the farm.

Soybeans are in greater demand now because they are being used for war materials, and Ohio farmers are expected to grow at least 40,000 more acres of them in 1942.

Richland county is not one of the state's heaviest producers of beans, Taylor said. Centrally located, the county is on the border between the heavy bean producing section in the western half of Ohio and the light producing counties in the eastern half.

Conservation and parity checks are expected to be ready for a number of Richland county farmers before Christmas. Payments farmers will receive this winter will be for their participation in the AAA program during the past growing season.

Supply Richland Farms With Lime To Rebuild Soil

With Richland county farmers expected to produce more food supplies next summer to help the stricken European countries, the county AAA office will supply 25,000 tons of lime to help rebuild county farms in 1942, G. L. Taylor, county AAA chairman, said today.

County AAA officials will open bids on the lime Nov. 22 at AAA headquarters on North Diamond street.

Taylor said the use of more lime on the soil will help offset the added drain on the soil's fertility as a result of the stepped-up acreage. This year approximately 11,000 tons of lime was spread on county farms.

The lime will be used on farms producing under the AAA program. Participating farmers obtain it through the county AAA office and the cost is deducted from the payments they receive under the crop program.

WARDENS FIND DEFENSE WORK DETERS CRIME

Federal Prison Director Says It's the Idle Man Who Stumbles.

(By United Press)

DENVER—The national defense program is causing a decrease in crime in the United States, but also is making the men behind bars work harder, according to James V. Bennett, director of the Federal Bureau of Prisons.

Bennett told a conference of federal wardens that there has been a considerable decrease in crimes prompted by economic difficulties and attributed it to the fact that many more men are getting jobs in defense industries.

"It's the idle man who gets into trouble," he said.

Inmates of federal prisons are working longer hours than before, he said, turning out such national defense products as shoes for the army, canvas for the navy and various types of steel equipment.

"The work involves longer hours and the men seem willing and anxious to do their part," he said.

"They apparently realize that living in an American prison is better than standing in front of a dictator's firing squad."

In addition to filling defense orders, the prisoners are studying welding, technical radio work, airplane engine mechanics and other vocational courses.

Bennett said there are only 200 prisoners in the entire system who were sentenced for refusal to register for the draft.

"I think this proves the American people are basically lawabiding and that they're wholeheartedly for the draft as a necessary part of our defense mechanism," he declared.

Another speaker at the conference, Walter K. Ulrich, parole executive of the prison bureau, urged a more liberal attitude by the army toward accepting ex-convicts as soldiers.

Ulrich said former prisoners frequently make good soldiers and have served with honor in past wars. Since they are familiar with discipline, he said, some have been known to react better than ordinary civilians to military life.

He said the prison bureau hopes in the future to recommend to the army certain men or parole who would be good subjects for army service.

No avenue leading toward rehabilitation should be closed to former prisoners. Ulrich declared, and the army is like any other opportunity for a man to rehabilitate himself.

"MISTERS" SCARCE

LONDON—(U.P.)—Of the total of 319 names of men appointed in the Home Guard only 19 are plain "misters." The other 300 names appearing in the War Office order paper are those of peers, baronets, knights, M. P.'s and brigadier-generals.

LONDON [illegible] coffee in German occupied Netherlands is now beyond the experimental stage and is being manufactured for the market by 18 Dutch factories, it is reported here. This ersatz contains about 12 per cent coffee, it is reported, while the bulk is made up of wheat, chicory and tulip bulbs.

SILENT GAS REFRIGERATION

The National Defense Against Food Spoilage

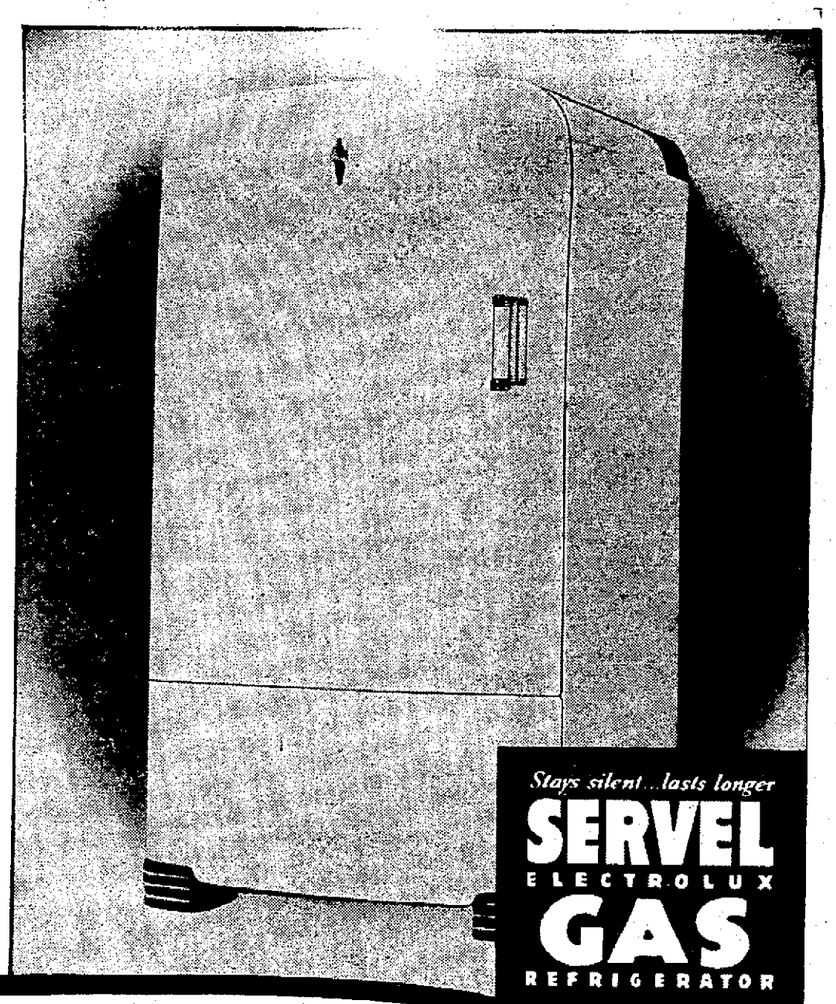
These are days of vigilance on every hand—vigilance against one of the family's greatest menaces—food spoilage. You need dependable refrigeration in your kitchen now more than ever before. Silent gas refrigeration brings you an adequate "defense" against food spoilage—and more efficiently and economically than any other modern method of refrigeration. A gas refrigerator has no moving parts in its freezing system to wear out or require costly repairs. A tiny gas flame does everything at a cost of less than 2 cents a day. Every 1942 Servel Electrolux gas refrigerator purchased at The Gas Company is backed by a 10-year unconditional guarantee on its complete freezing system — your assurance of a long, as well as an adequate, "defense" against food spoilage.



SEE—BUT NEVER HEAR THIS SILENT STAR OF THE GREAT AMERICAN FOOD FARE

Miss Elizabeth Shipman
Gasco Food Lecturer

As you attend "The Great American Food Fare"—1942 version of the Gasco Food Institute—you'll see a 1942 Servel gas refrigerator playing an important part in each program. Yes, you'll see it used many times—but you'll never hear it once. Nor could you, were your seat right at its side. A gas refrigerator is permanently silent because it has no moving parts in its freezing system to make a noise. After the program tomorrow, go to the stage and examine this famous silent refrigerator in detail. Visit The Gas Company for more information on a Servel for your kitchen.

REPORTS MILK FROM 10 FARMS NOT INSPECTED

Health Commissioner Declares 125 More Families Buying Milk Not Pasteurized.

Evidence that at least ten salesmen are selling milk from non-inspected farms to Mansfield residents has been collected by the Mansfield board of health, Dr. W. B. Wild, city-county health commissioner, announced today.

Wild said that his department was investigating not only the many sales being made in the city illegally but also the many more made outside the city to persons driving to non-inspected farms.

A survey of the milk sales situation in Mansfield reveals that about 125 families have stopped purchasing milk from registered dairies since the latest increase in milk prices.

Prior to that time, it is estimated that about 275 families purchased their milk from other dairies than those selling pasteurized milk. The new increase brings the total to more than 400 families. This of course does not take into account the scores of families who drive out into the country to purchase milk products.

Wild said that his department was collecting evidence and would prosecute those milk salesmen who refuse to observe the laws regulating the sale of milk in the city.

The health department has warned Mansfield residents against purchasing uninspected milk since four cases of undulant fever have been reported.

YOUTH BECOMES CRACK RADIO 'HAM' IN SPITE OF HANDICAPS

(By International News Service)

PASADENA, Cal.—Only his elbows, wrists and fingers can move, but Paul Leland Clark has the world as a friend, filled with real pals in every corner.

Except for these few movable joints, his entire body is paralyzed from a fall 13 years ago. He has been an amateur shortwave operator now for four years.

Yet, despite his handicaps, Clark has managed to assemble, fix and repair his sending and receiving set on a small work bench fastened to his chest.

On the walls of his one room physical horizon at Pasadena are larger frames holding literally hundreds of cards from "hams" he has spoken to over the air.

They are real friends, too, not just speaking acquaintances. Many have contributed parts to improve his apparatus. Others have built him a directional aerial, operated with gears and a motor he controls from a switch on his bedside table.

Clark has also made contributions. One he holds high in his memories. It was the time he complied with a request from his friends in Kukuihaele, Hawaii, by arranging to have a mother in Pasadena talk with her daughter visiting on the Islands. On schedule, they talked with the aid of his sets for 45 minutes. A few days later the mother died suddenly of a heart attack.

Like the rest of his body, Clark's lower jaw is paralyzed and his teeth are locked fast so his mushed voice is rather a test for a microphone.

A "ham" dropped in to make a test with a new "Mike" and when John Fredericks, jr., Los Angeles attorney and "ham," heard it, he called back to the owner and said:

"Harold, I want you to leave that 'mike' right where it is. It's just what Paul needs. You buy yourself another and charge it to me."

Although Clark is either listening or sending by voice or Morse code during most of his waking hours, the twice-a-week roundtable is the highlight of his week.

A group of friends, scattered throughout the country, tune in at a fixed hour. Their conversation follows whatever line happens to come up and is always exciting to Clark. Sometimes its about radio trouble, correction, chatter, or even philosophy, but during this time, Clark is taken from his bed and drifts among a bunch of swell folks with keen minds and a delightful sense of humor.

He receives spending money for additional equipment from the repair work he does on other sets, which includes soldering and fixing detailed parts—something others find difficult to do even under normal conditions.

SAYS U. S. AIR SERVICES ARE IMPERILLING AMERICAN FORESTS

(By International News Service)

DENVER—While they may not know it, the army and the navy air service are imperilling American forests, according to P. A. Thompson, chief of the U. S. Forest Service division of personnel management, who visited Denver recently.

"Smoke jumpers," as Thompson calls the fire fighters who float down into remote forest areas from airplanes, "are hard to get these days, what with the army and navy air arms taking the cream of the nation's youth."

Thompson explained that the forest service has been seeking to develop "blitz" tactics in the fight of forest fires by creating a division of parachuters, equipped with adequate fire-fighting tools, who could fly over a remote section of a forest where a blaze is started and put it out in a hurry.

"The parachute fighter, who has been the guinea pig of fire fighting in the past, has proved to be an invaluable means of preventing huge losses from fires removed from immediate ground attack," Thompson said.

"The ability to strike hard and fast has made the 'smoke jumper' a most important cog in our system," he said. "By this means we can control a fire shortly after a chutist has landed on the spot."

Equipment of a 'smoke jumper' consists of the usual 30-foot silk parachute, specially rigged with shroud lines for guilding the chute, a football helmet, a high padded collar, a convex mask to protect his face, a portable two-way radio and a shovel, ax, provisions and other fire fighting equipment.

With special shroud lines the jumper can guide his chute to within 50 feet of a fire. The special chute also is designed to open quicker than others. It also has a special harness to release a jumper who has landed in a tree top.

The harness is a detachable unit and carries a rope. The jumper unsnaps his chute harness and slides down from the top of the tree. Paradoxically, the forest service jumpers often aim for trees where other chutists in the army and navy shoot for open fields.

The helmet, padded collar, and convex mask are designed to protect the jumper from tree branches and the portable radio keeps him in touch with the plane above to report developments.

Nursemaids Are Becoming Scarce In England Today

LONDON —(INS)— Nursemaids are becoming as scarce as butter, onions and sugar in wartime England.

The call-up of nurses into war work has left hundreds of mothers to look after their own children for the first time in their lives.

Many mothers whose nurses are now doing war work have had to give up their own war duties in order to care for the children.

Some families have solved the problem by pooling their children in one big nursery where they are looked after by a head nurse and assistant nursemaid.

Others are so reluctant to look after their own children that they are hurriedly taking up part-time war work. This, they hope, will "justify" the exemption for nurses likely to be called up.

75 TO GET JOBS

Employment Bureau Predicts Holiday Shopping Needs.

When the Christmas shopping rush gets under way in Mansfield within the next two or three weeks, merchants are going to have jobs for at least 75 extra clerks, Manager C. W. Handley of the Employment Security center estimated today.

Handley urged persons seeking holiday employment to register at the employment office at 54-56 North Diamond street so they will be in line for jobs when the shopping season begins.

Merchants in the city are cooperating in the registration of workers, he said, by sending all applicants they are unable to employ to the Employment Security center so they may be referred to jobs open in other stores. The service is provided free to applicants and employers.

LIBRARY 'CONSCIENCE CHUTE' PRODUCES DESIRED RESULTS

(By International News Service)

JOPLIN, Mo.—As a means of "welcoming back all books that strayed from the Joplin Public library without consent," officials recently established a "conscience chute" and find it rather effective.

Although the results are admittedly slow, Miss Blanche Trigg, librarian, expressed satisfaction that in the long run the plan will be fairly productive. Its publicity value already has been realized, she said.

Inaugurated after reading of a similar plan in a library journal, the project called for installation of a night depository on the library's front verandas, similar to those used by banking institutions. This was to permit persons who had carried off books or kept them beyond the time limit to return them without embarrassment.

Above the chute a sign was erected reading "Conscience Week —No Questions Asked." Later the device was made a permanent fixture, and the sign was changed to read, "Deposit Books Here When Library Is Closed."

During the last two years approximately 300 volumes vanished from the library shelves, according to a recent inventory. So far, only a small proportion of these have been returned through the chute, but indications are that more probably will find their way back to the stacks when the public becomes more familiar with the plan.

Miss Trigg said the volumes which "walked off" were of many different types, but indicated that books of technical nature or dealing with hobbies seemed to predominate. They concerned electricity, radio, aeroplanes, woodwork and carpentry, and mathematics.

A noticeable number of missing books dealt with such subjects as cooking, gardening, accounting, advertising and astrology.

Several volumes were of such a nature as to cause library employes to wonder if the borrower was not getting off on the wrong foot, as far as practical application of the theories expounded in the books was concerned. These books explained techniques of child guidance!

Although the present flow of returning books is slow, Miss Trigg said the publicity value of the chute is evident and cites one example of what she means.

A gentleman, who owns a rooming house, noticed the chute and canvassed the empty rooms of his establishment. He discovered five valuable books, all with the book slips, and returned them to the library from which they had been removed.

Mansfield News-Journal

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 12, 1941.

If Russia can use any more winter weather to advantage we'll be glad to contribute our share of it.

Noting attendance figures for Saturday afternoon football games indicates that the week-end unemployment situation must be distressing.

People are gradually beginning to realize that those Civil war cannons mounted in public parks and court house yards over the country are not adequate protection in case of attack.

Larger Quota for Red Cross

THE WORK AND PURPOSES of the Red Cross are so well known, and support in Mansfield and Richland county has been so willing and so widespread, that it seems little more is necessary than to make it generally known in city and county that the annual roll call of membership is again in progress—with a considerably increased quota to be filled.

Last year's enrollment for Richland county reached a total of 13,086, which set up an admirable new record of accomplishment, but this year's needs for Red Cross work, in its various fields of activity, will be greater than heretofore, and there is likelihood of requirements that cannot now be foreseen.

The campaign organization of 650 men and women has for its slogan, "A Membership for Every Adult" and this will be the aim in the canvass which started yesterday and will continue to the end of November.

Decision Against Closed Shop

DECISION of the national defense mediation board against demand of the United Mine Workers for a "closed shop" in captive coal mines is so much in accord with American principles of safeguarding individual rights that it appears to be the only one justified.

To whatever extent the legitimate aims of organized labor may be encouraged by governmental policies and public sympathy, it cannot be imagined that the right to work would be officially denied any American citizen for exercising the privilege of choice between membership and non-membership in ANY organization.

While policies of the national administration have been such as to seem to make union membership compulsory in some lines of employment, this cannot be regarded as a principle of government, or a denial of equal employment opportunities to union and non-union workers.

No statement has yet been forthcoming from John L. Lewis, head of the United Mine Workers, as to whether there will be acceptance or rejection of the mediation board's ruling, and November 15 still stands as the deadline fixed by Mr. Lewis when he called off the four-day strike earlier in the month to give further time for mediation.

Whatever Mr. Lewis decides, however, the urgent need for coal required for steel production in defense industries is such as to demand stern action by the government to keep the mines open, if such a step becomes necessary.

Essentials of Price Control

REASONS why ceilings for wages and farm prices must be included in any effective effort of government to prevent disastrous inflation during the war emergency are better understood after hearing such an explanation of national problems as is given by Paul J. Eakin, former Mansfielder, who recently has been the speaker at two local civic club meetings.

Just how it comes about that greatly increased earnings, in association with war-time reduction of consumer goods, should create a dangerous situation, does not become clear until application is made to the nation's financial problem as a whole, which involves consideration of surplus billions of dollars added to purchasing power, and consequent price rises for limited consumer commodities.

It appears, also, that tax increases and efforts to distribute defense stamps and bonds are as much intended to store up individual buying power for later use as they are designed to provide immediate funds for war financing.

The same may be said of the proposed increase in social security deposits, which Mr. Eakin referred to as actually constituting a payroll tax, planned to further cut down the immediate spending made possible by a jump of around 18 billion dollars in annual national income, due to defense expenditures.

A fact worth considering, as revealed by Mr. Eakin, is that while the United States has thus far devoted only about 16 per cent of its total productive energy to war effort, Germany has been giving 70 per cent; Great Britain, 50 per cent, and Canada 45 per cent, to war production—which indicates the further changes in prospect when this country finally settles itself to the reality of war conditions and the necessity for "all out" effort.

High Cost of Forgetfulness

THE VARIETY of articles people leave on public conveyances and never reclaim is astonishing. An eight-months' collection of stuff was sold at auction the other day by the city subway system of Brooklyn, N. Y. It contained almost everything from a lunch box to a slide trombone. A stuffed pheasant, knitting equipment, bicycles, blankets, fur pieces, automobile tires, spectacles and fishing tackle were there. Umbrellas to the number of 3,700 were sold in bundles of 10 at 25 cents a bundle.

Why don't the owners go to the lost and found department to look up their missing possessions? Some articles would not be worth the time and effort necessary to get them back again, but many items sold at the auction are valuable.

Forgetfulness also results in many losses to tourists who hurry away from overnight stopping places without gathering up all their belongings, or leave parking places without making sure that all their luggage is accounted for.

Nor is it unusual to find rings and other valuables in rest rooms at filling stations, or handbags carelessly left on counters in stores—but that's "human nature," so probably nothing can be done about it.

A parachutist recently dropped more than five miles before opening his 'chute—but many prefer other ways of living a fast life.

A small town is one from which a young man goes to "accept a responsible position" and returns to take a job.

An ambitious western inventor claims that all he needs to start his perpetual motion machine is $3,000.

Thinking of Others

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

YOU THINK of those Englishmen who are fighting on and on, through these nights. I don't mean the trained men . . . the boys of fine families who've grown up with the tradition of fighting in their veins. I'm thinking of the poor lads with no tradition of any kind, saving that of hurt and hunger and a dumb wonder what's it all about.

Waking in the night . . . turning in your comfortable bed . . . you wonder what it's like for them . . . for the men nobody remembers . . . and there, waking, Ed Murrow's voice came to me, speaking from London . . . speaking quietly, wearily, over the darkness and the storm.

"What are they like?" said Ed Murrow. "They're the least heroic set of men you could imagine."

And then the miles between us dissolved entirely, for I was out there with Ed Murrow on the barnacled end of a London dock . . . out there waiting where the shabby old trains come in and the slimy little boats go out, saving England.

Nothing much to see, at first. Black-out, of course, with that sour reek and stink that comes with falling tide under the rotting piers. Soot-stained . . . everything. Steel rails and rafters half lost in the gloom of it . . . sounds all churning in the muck 'n' murk of it.

Girls saying good-bye to their boys . . . big-hipped, buck-toothed Cockney girls, with their faces all set aslant from the pain of it. Old mothers saying good-bye, too. Picking a thread from the clumsy army clothes . . . patting the half-grown shoulders . . . talking about how they must remember their flannels when the nights get nippy. Old women with faded eyes, petting and patting and picking with their gnarled old hands . . . and the boys coughing.

And the trains coming and going . . . coming and going—with the sounds, all the sounds, being sucked up into the rafters, in long, senseless wails.

Only here and there, there were huddles of men that didn't get going, just sprawled around waiting for boats. Undersized, underfed men with those same buck teeth and watery eyes and stringy necks. Just sitting around in cheap, shiny blue serge suits and "bowler" 'ats . . . not saying much. Just munching their "fish 'n' chips" outta greasy bags. Cheap-looking men in cheap clothes. Wipin' their noses on their sleeves. With that gray color to them that comes from being always a little hungry. And nothin' to set 'em apart but a shiny 10 cent badge they wore in their button holes. Badges marked "M. N." Meaning "Merchant Navy."

"Merchant Navy, what's that?" said Ed Murrow to one of them.

"Well, it ain't much, Mister," said the man. "Guess it all depends on how you look at it. Mostly we ain't got any training or any boats. But we takes what we gets 'n' uses it as we getta chance."

"But, you don't have to go, do you?" asked Ed Murrow. "You're not kids . . . you've got families. You could get jobs at home . . . some kind of safe jobs, couldn't you?"

The man took a long time answering. Then he looked away . . . out through the sooty piers . . . out into the black and slimy water . . . out into the night that had no end.

"Yes," he mumbled, "I suppose we could, Mister. But . . . his wizened body slid off the stool . . . stood. For an instant something flashed, then faded, in his graying face.

"Yes, I s'pose we could," he mumbled again. "But—y'u see, Mister, it ain't like that with us. 'Tisn't as if we, ourselves, meant anything special. 'Tisn't as if we counted. But the Old Girl—England—she's in a mess. And we can't let her down . . . 'N' I guess there's times when a fellow's . . ." He looked away, shuffled, drew a well-worn sleeve across a well-worn nose. "I guess there's times when a fella's got to think o' somethin' aside hisself."

Timely Editorial

LaGuardia's Silliness.

The LaGuardia patriotic housewives' aluminum junk contribution scheme has been junked and is written off by William S. Knudsen, director of the office of production management, as a "silly mistake." The plan may have been silly, but trifling with the patriotic devotion of the people is not to be lightly regarded.

Willing to share in what their government touted as a national emergency, women contributed the heaps of aluminum that for weeks decorated public squares in towns and cities all over the country. They were amazed to learn later that no plan has been made for using the material and were justly annoyed at the various proposals for "selling" to private concerns that which had been given to their government. — Detroit News.

—By MYRTLE BRENT JESSON

America, God's chosen nation;
Trumpet freedom round the world;
Launch thy Mayflower, steer her boldly—
Keep her stars and stripes unfurled!
Are we weaker than our fathers;
Great brave souls with faith divine?
Shall we fail our children's children,
Or defeat a monster's crime?

America, God's own Messiah;
Lift thy cross, as did thy sires;
They have rights who dare defend them—
Rebuild Freedom's altar fires!
We have made our son's brave hostage
By our blundering at Versailles.
Why be clay of Slavery's shaping;
Worse than death, to him who fails.

America, has't thou forgotten
Loved ones there 'neath Flanders' skies?
Would'st thou betray their sacred trust—
Brave the challenge of their eyes?
Their mute lips would fain exhort thee—
"Hasten now, do not delay;
Bloody hands are reaching nearer
Where thy little children play!"

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Nazis Use Former U. S. Ship To Smuggle War Materials to Japs

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—There is a German smuggler operating in the Caribbean off the coast of Mexico.

This was the inside reason for the president's sudden transfer of the entire coast guard to the navy—the coast guard's ships and planes are needed to track down the Nazi intruder.

Sensational feature about the smuggler is that she is a former U. S. vessel—the 800-ton Diesel-engined yacht that once belonged to A. Atwater Kent, Philadelphia radio magnate.

The one-time pleasure ship now is being operated under the Panamanian flag out of Vera Cruz, Mexico, by Nazi agents in that city, and is being used to transport high test gasoline and mercury to small Caribbean Islands where Japanese ships collect the smuggled strategic supplies.

The yacht recently unloaded 1,000 flasks of mercury at an island which for military reasons must be nameless.

The former luxury craft came into possession of the Nazis by a circuitous route which Intelligence experts uncovered only a few weeks ago. The purchase was made by a shipping company whose main office is in Vera Cruz and has a branch office in New Orleans, where transfer of title took place. The price was $18,000.

Fortunately for Intelligence, the payment was made in U. S. bills of $1,000 denomination. From the serial numbers, the bills were traced back to a Vera Cruz bank. There it was learned the money had been withdrawn from the account of the leading Nazi business house in Mexico, and turned over to the shipping company that bought the yacht.

Nazi Owners.

SUBSEQUENT investigation revealed that all the stockholders of this company were Germans; also that the two top officers were Spaniards, one a naturalized Mexican and the other a naturalized American citizen.

Now, every movement of the yacht is watched, but there is nothing the United States can do about the ship unless she enters American waters. So far the vessel has been very careful to stay within Mexican territorial waters.

Before U. S. authorities uncovered the Nazi ownership of the yacht and the nature of its operations, however, it made three trips to Cuba. It also docked several times at Panama. The crew of the vessel, from the captain down, are Spaniards recently brought from Spain expressly for this purpose.

Note—The yacht is one of several to which deposed pro-Nazi President Arias gave Panamanian registry.

Returned Favor.

WHEN Representative John McCormack of Massachusetts was elected Democratic floor leader of the house, one of his strongest and most unexpected supporters was Georgia's fiery New Deal-hating Gene Cox. Though the two men were poles apart on economic views, Cox nevertheless backed McCormack and did yeoman work for him.

Recently McCormack returned the favor. Before leaving on a trip to Massachusetts, McCormack named Cox acting floor leader during his absence. "There's one condition, however, Gene," he grinned. "You'll have to refrain from those hot one-minute speeches on the floor. I don't want my standin taking swings at the administration. It would look bad.

McCormack wished the Georgian luck and left the chamber. Hardly had he departed when Cox jumped up and asked permission to address the house for one minute. New Dealers held their breath, expecting him to uncork one of his scorching blasts.

But they relaxed with a sigh of relief when Cox launched into a teriffic tirade against John L. Lewis.

Partisan Politics Vanishes.

ASIDE from Democratic Chairman Ed Flynn, who is always complaining about Republicans being appointed to new government jobs, not many people realize how much partisan politics has been forgotten in Washington these days.

There are illustrations galore, but one of the best is the present job of Cyrus McCormick, Republican national committeeman from New Mexico. Scion of the famous International Harvester family, McCormick is now working hand-in-glove with one of the most ardent and controversial New Dealers in Washintgon, Price Czar Leon Henderson.

McCormick is a full-time member of Henderson's staff and recently completed a trip through the industrial midwest, meeting automobile retailers and selling them on Henderson's price-fixing ideas. He made many converts.

This is strange medicine for some of the folks back in Santa Fe, Mexico, where McCormick has a ranch, and where he is a rampant Republican boss.

Lend-Lease Expert.

THE MOST novel type of Lend-Lease operation thus far was the lend-leasing of a man named Adolph. Adolph Eichhorn went over to help the British against Adolf Hitler.

The British are suffering from insufficient production of milk, because of diseased cattle, and Eichhorn is the man who knows all the cow cures. He is director of the animal disease station under the department of agriculture.

Three principal diseases afflict British cattle: tuberculosis, which makes the cattle lean; Bang's disease, which results in the loss of the calf; and mastitis, which causes a hard bag and stringy milk, unfit for food.

Eichhorn was obliged to tell the British that tuberculosis, which afflicts 35% of British cattle, cannot be cured during the course of the war, unless the war lasts for another generation. It took the United States 22 years to get the disease under control.

Bang's disease is more readily cured. By vaccination, a calf can be immunized so that its adult life will not be afflicted with the disease.

Meantime, the British are importing great quantities of dry and powdered milk from the United States. Fresh milk is worth a king's ransom.

Note—The cost of Eichhorn's trip to Britain by plane, and his five weeks' stay, was charged to the lend-lease account.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Here is what happened to little Carolyn Lee, the actress, who is only seven years of age, when she tried to make a speech at a Broadway luncheon in her honor.

The other guests were mostly movie executives. Carolyn had committed to memory a little philosophical poem which begins "This world is strange," and was on the dais with a microphone in front of her, ready to go, when she suddenly felt a front tooth move.

As she opened her mouth to say this, the tooth dropped out, and her mother, Mrs. Evelyn Copp, of Martins Ferry, Ohio, who was seated alongside her, quickly produced a handkerchief to staunch the blood. All Carolyn was able to say was "hello," and with a wave of her hand she sat down.

Carolyn, whom I hadn't seen since the picture "Virginia" was being filmed near Charlottesville, Va., summer before last, earns the interesting salary of $1250 a week when she works. Her newest picture is "Birth of the Blues" with Bing Crosby. Until last summer she had had no formal schooling. Her constant companion, now, however, is a Wellesley graduate who specializes in child education. Says she: "Carolyn learned to read in six weeks. It takes most children a year."

MAKA lota money, go bust, redecorate, reopen, maka lota money somoa is apparently the one-line biography of a strange club on Broadway known as The Beachcomber. Two winters ago it was a sensation. You could not wrangle a seat in the place after midnight unless you had plenty of folding money to soften the attitude of the waiters. It was a reedy place of tiger skins, bamboo thatched roofs, softly-padding China boys, candied duck with almond sauce, and hot coffee-rum. It made big dough, but then there were a lot of hands in the pie, and —suddenly—after a couple of years, it folded . . . It has reopened after a layoff of some months under new management, and on the night I was there it was swimming with the familiar crowds who were banging down the doors. The Beachcomber today is less thatched about the roof and fewer tiger skins are in evidence . . . In sum, while retaining an aura of its tropical charm, it is nearer the Southern California coast in decor than the Malayan jungles, as of yore. Will it hold? Will it keep winning? It should, but, Broadway being what it is, your guess is better than mine.

JOHN STEINBECK, the "Grapes of Wrath" man, is occupying Burgess Meredith's apartment on this visit to New York . . . Just think, a few years ago a man from the coast came to NY and tried to sell a personality called Gene Autry, and nobody knew who Autry was . . . They know now . . . He dines in lofty cowboy style, sombrero, chaps, high-heel boots at all the hotels . . . In Seventh avenue, a strangely familiar face . . . She was leaving a taxi . . . You know her, and yet the name just would not come. . . . Then, like that, it did—Janet Gaynor. Remember?

A Farmer's Diary

Hunting Story

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

THE HALE old farmer came to call, and I saw him looking at the old muzzle loader on the wall with a reminiscent twinkle in his gray eyes.

"When I was a boy, an old man lived near us who had one of those," he said finally. "It was a relic, even then—wooden ramrod, powder horn, and little caps to put on underneath the hammer. He used to say it kicked like a mule and it took him nearly a half hour to load it, but still he liked to shoot it off once in a while, just to hear it roar.

"One day he had sat underneath an oak for a long, long time trying to pot a frisky gray squirrel that was playin' around. In those days squirrel-shooting wasn't merely a sport—they depended on it to help out the food supply.

"He took one shot and missed, then loaded 'er up again—first the powder poured into the muzzle of the gun through a little hole in the end of the powder horn; then a bit of wadding rammed down until the wooden ramrod rebounded; then the bullet and more wadding to hold the bullet in. After all that all there was to do was put the cap under the hammer. The cap had explosive in it, it sparked, and fired the powder; when the powder went off it propelled the bullet—very simple.

"It was always better, he had found, to lower the hammer slowly and press the cap down tight, to insure ready firing. He was doing it that way, when his finger slipped and the gun went off too soon. He had stood with the muzzle tilted up toward the oak, and when he turned around, as the gun went off, the squirrel he had been trying so hard to hit fell out at his feet with its head shot neatly off! The old man laughed and laughed whenever he told that tale. I can hear him yet."

"I know one—but not like that," said the farmer's wife. "It happened when my brother was only six or seven. He teased to go hunting with father. Dad was sure he'd be a nuisance, but finally did take him along, on condition he'd promise to walk alongside and never say one word.

"I remember how they started off across the meadow pasture toward the wooded thicket, where the rabbits were abundant. The grass grew in tall bunches, here and there, nearly as high as the little red-cheeked boy. Bub was struttin' alongside Dad, keepin' mighty quiet, but with his eyes wide open.

"All at once, without a word said, the little boy dived head first into a patch of grass and a rabbit screamed. The youngster had seen one "frozen" right at his feet and grabbed it with both hands. Father killed it, then, by striking it with his finger at the base of the brain. Then bled it and brought it home. It was the only success they had that day—and the only time I ever knew of a hunter catching a wild rabbit in his hands."

CHAPTER XX

The radio broadcast about Joy Boone and her pet fawn had follow-up attention at once.

A national picture magazine telephoned Joy from New York. They were sending an ace photographer down at once to do a picture coverage entitled, "Society Queen Goes Western." It would require dozens of carefully done poses, showing Joy in action through a typical week of study and play. The photographer would be Mr. James Glenn.

Almost that same hour, too, a newspaper syndicate telegraphed that one of its feature writers, Terry Brookfield, was flying down to do a series of intimate articles about Joy as "The American Girl In Action."

Bettina Carlson handled those calls. As Joy's secretary she was used to such things, used to arranging Joy's days, paying Joy's bills, handling the myriad business and personal details which beset a young multi-millionairess. Joy had to be gracious to all. Besides, she liked the attention, and was honest enough to, admit it. At least she had liked it until now.

She was, surprisingly to herself, disturbed about the gossip which the radio narrator had started. He had hinted that she and Ken Palmer were engaged. The Frontier girls then had swamped her with congratulations, telling her she had "got her man."

And that's where the surprise came. "Ken hasn't asked to marry me!" she whispered to herself, alone in her dormitory suite "And —I don't much care!"

She felt a tingly little sense of shame. Little, but definite. It was something she had seldom ever experienced before She thought about the whole thing for an hour Maybe she did in truth "get her man," but she had honestly to admit now that it had been a sort of lark. Having "got" him, she wasn't so anxious to claim him any more All at once Joy saw herself as a spoiled somebody just enjoying the thrill of conquest, and she was appalled But there is such a thing as pride too; and a course once set is not easily changed

She was almost in tears when Ward McMurray telephoned her.

"Hi, Skeets!" he boomed at her over the wire "Say, know what? The panthers have been taking some of our stock again, and dad wants to throw another hunt . . . Yep sure, a lion hunt, mountain lions You said you enjoyed the deer hunt Wanta go with us after lions?"

Joy's interest leaped

Not only was a lion hunt a new experience, but it would also get her away from this gossip thing At least away from worrying about it She hastened to accept The same group that went after deer would be along this time, she learned That included Dr Palmer and Bettina Carlson, whom Buck McMurray admired more and more.

Excitement again was in the air when the magazine photographer and the syndicate writer arrived in town.

Those two gentlemen, Glenn and Brookfield, were doubly delighted. With the customary agility of their clan they invited themselves to go along with Joy on the hunting trip, and of course Buck McMurray said he would be pleased to have them.

"This is sure swell!" Mr. Glenn exulted. "Imagine, getting Joy Boone chasing lions! Whoops!"

"Check," Brookfield agreed. "Looks like a break for both of us."

They were decent enough young men; types, really. They stood in no awe of Joy Boone, but they liked her cordiality.

They slept most of the way out toward Tonto Rim where the hunt was to begin, and they came fully awake only when the second car on this party rolled up to the log cabin there and Polly McMurray stepped out in trim western hunting clothes.

"Sa-a-a-ay!" James Glenn gave tribute, low tone

He saw instantly that Polly was photogenic. Saw her consummate grace. Her stature. Her extraordinary pretty brown eyes, and her high coloring that was from wind and sunshine and wholesome living. When the introductions were under way and she smiled at him, Mr. Glenn from Manhattan felt his heart do a sort of deliberate handspring! In the same moment he perceived that his colleague, Terry Brookfield, was affected the same way.

"So nice that you could come on the lion hunt," Polly assured them. "It ought to make your pictures much more interesting, don't you think?"

"Could you hold that position just a second, Miss McMurray?" Glenn pleaded. "I'll have my camera ready in two shakes."

Polly looked bland. "Me?"

"You. There against the blue skyline and that green cedar tree I'm taking color shots. Your costume—you—say, would you like a tryout for pictures? Hollywood, I mean I also represent one of the studios as a talent scout and—"

"Oh!" Polly laughed then. "Please excuse me I misunderstood Miss Boone is yonder helping get the hunting dogs and the horses out of the ranch truck. We are about the same build, but I thought you had met her, and all. Anyway she is very fair. Blond. I'm sorry you mistook me for her."

Mr. Glenn eyed her. "I didn't," said he. "I've known Joy Boone for years. Now look—just lean back casually against the tree and—"

"But Mr. Glenn!"

"Sure! That's it! Bright brown eyes. Alert smile. Hot ziggety gosh, Brookfield, just look at this girl! Hidden out here in Arizona!"

"You better sign her and wire Sol Berger what you've found," the syndicate man said, enthusiastically. "Sign her for a test anyway. Some other scout may get ahead of you if they see your photos. I can give her a boost in the column that will help with the publicity sendoff, then you can start building for—"

"For goodness sake!" Polly was more or less ignored in their shop talk. But not for long. Mr. Glenn took eight pictures of her then and there, quite overruling Polly's flustered protests. When the others came to watch, he ignored them and went on with his picture making. In time he was through, and turned to be introduced to Ken Palmer, Buck McMurray the rancher, and a camp helper and cook.

The picture taking procedure was embarrassing to Polly. She hoped Joy had seen that it was forced on her She whispered to Ward, asking him to direct their attention at once to Joy. But when Ward spoke to them in private a few minutes later—

"Nuts to that McMurray!" Glenn said, grinning "Glammer gals come a dime a dozen. Personally I think the public is sated with 'em, although I admit the Boone person has something on the ball, all right. But your sister now—whew! You ought to look at her!"

Ken Palmer sensed their attitude also, and curiously enough was more than normally concerned about it He somehow felt that it was a personal matter with him. Not that he disapproved of their reactions to Polly, on the contrary, he told himself, he though he understood how they felt.

The camp this time was in a highline mountain cabin on the far reaches of the range area for this part of Arizona A threat of rain was showing Mr. McMurray said that inasmuch as the hour was late afternoon, they'd all hole in for the night and start early tomorrow.

"Suits me swell," James Glenn said. "Miss McMurray, your brother brought a guitar along. Said you could play it Can you tune it up for me here in the cabin?"

"Hey!" said Terry Brookfield "You've had your inning with her. It's my turn."

"Try and get it!" the other young man grinned "Miss—look, may I call you Polly?—look, why don't you come on to New York and—"

He was a very talkative somebody. And so, for that matter, was Brookfield. Moreover, there was nothing whatsoever bashful about either of them Accustomed to working at high tension, these two from the east pitched into new self-assigned pleasures here.

NAVY CREATES PACIFIC COAST PATROL FLEET

Small Craft Registered By U. S. Skeleton Corps Receives Training.

(By United Press)

SAN FRANCISCO — Twelfth District Naval officials are completing the organization of a "small boat navy" for the Pacific coast.

Any emergency in Pacific coast waters, necessitating a fleet of every available craft, would find the navy ready to meet it.

Taking advantage of the experience of the British when virtually every craft capable of navigating the English channel was rushed at a moment's notice to help take off the defeated British forces from Dunkirk, the Navy Department has planned to be prepared.

Treasure Island, site of the Golden Gate International Exposition in San Francisco, has been taken over by the navy and converted into a base, headquarters and training school for the new "small boat navy."

Virtually every seagoing craft on the Pacific coast, from power driven fishing boats to luxury private yachts has been inspected and classified and registered. Many are being bought and a list of 500 available craft has been compiled. They will be equipped with machine and higher caliber guns.

Eureka, Monterey, Pittsburgh and other coastal cities and harbors are being equipped as local and secondary bases. At these bases operators and crews of small craft are being inducted into the naval reserve on a volunteer basis, and are organized into compact, well trained sea-going units.

Among the duties they will be called upon to perform in event of war are patrolling of waters with which they already are familiar, scouting for periscopes, and watching for small boats attempting to make a landing on the coast. They will maintain an outlook for stray enemy aircraft out for reconnaissance purposes, and they will sweep for mines and perform a score of other duties.

They will constitute an inner patrol near the coast while the larger units of the navy are patroling out at sea.

As far as possible, experienced small boat operators are being recruited, including tugboat men, yachtsmen, fishermen and virtually everyone else with qualifications and experience in this field of navigation.

The completed inshore patrol fleet will present the picture of a working naval unit, heterogeneous as to vessels but manned by men who have the double advantage of navy training and indoctrination and thorough knowledge of the waters in which they may be called upon to operate.

FLAG PRESENTED

CRESTLINE — A large silk American flag in a standard was presented by Good Hope Council, Daughters of America to Crestline Emergency hospital at a meeting of the hospital board of directors held Tuesday. The presentation was made by Mrs. William Scheiber, councilor of the local D. of A. and Miss Ethel Levy. The flag has been placed in the front entrance hall.

Routine business was conducted at the meeting of the board, bills were allowed and a report given of the recent painting and repair work which was done.

FUNERAL SET

Rites For J. W. Hosler, 69, To Be Held Thursday.

Funeral services for John W. Hosler, 69, former Mansfield resident, who died unexpectedly in Corbin, Ky., Sunday night, while en route to Florida to spend the winter, will be held at 3 p. m. Thursday in the Methodist church at Bettsville, O. Burial will be in the cemetery there.

Mr. Hosler, a retired passenger conductor for the Pennsylvania railroad, lived in Mansfield about a year before his retirement. He traveled between Mansfield and Toledo, retiring a little less than a year ago.

Among the survivors are a sister, Mrs. E. S. Emery; and two nieces, Mrs. H. T. Siegenthaler and Mrs. Henry P. Huston, all of Mansfield. Also surviving is the widow, Mrs. Susan Cramer Hosler, who was with her husband when he was stricken Sunday.

DELEGATES DINE HEAVILY

FORT WAYNE, Ind.—(U.P.)—When the Missouri Synod of the Lutheran Church met here, delegates consumed 10,000 pounds of meat, 750 bushels of potatoes, 340 gallons of milk, 3,100 loaves of bread, and 3,400 pies. No fewer than 14,000 cookies were eaten, and the delegates were lusty cake-caters, too—14,600 pieces disappearing.

Lampoons Pseudo Art.

Lampooning the fake sophistication of a literary crowd whose antics are described against a backdrop of Greenwich Village, a Park avenue penthouse and a lodge in the Adirondacks, "The Feminine Touch," opening today at the Ohio, stars Rosaline Russell, Don Ameche, Kay Francis and Van Heflin. The latter was leading man to Katharine Hepburn in the stage production of "The Philadelphia Story." Ameche plays the role of a college professor who takes his wife, played by Rosalind Russell, with him when he tried to sell his book to a publisher. Van Heflin in the role of the publisher, and Kay Francis as his assistant, start the fireworks.

High School Comedy.

"Henry Aldrich For President," opening at the Madison today, brings a new player to the screen in the role of the popular high school hero who gets himself in more trouble than half a dozen boys put together. Henry runs for president of the high school student council in this production and is opposed by a son of wealth portrayed by Kenneth Howell. Mary Anderson and Charlie Smith are among the young players in the picture. Warren Williams in "Secrets of the Lone Wolf," is the co-attraction.

Ginger Rogers.

Headlining the bill, "Vivacious Lady" with Ginger Rogers and James Stewart, is the attraction at the Park. "Under Age," the second feature presents an array of Hollywood starlets in the role of decoys for a blackmail gang at a tourist camp. Expose of the tragedies that befall homeless girls finally forced into a life of crime because they want to live like human beings the picture shows what happened to one girl who wanted to quit the racket. Alan Baxter, Mary Anderson and Nan Grey are in the cast.

Society Comedy.

Philip Barry's comedy success, "The Philadelphia Story," concerning a young woman of society with no tolerance for human weaknesses, is playing at the Majestic with Katharine Hepburn in the leading role. The plot hinges on her former husband's efforts to swerve her from the altar with "a man of the people" just about the time she is ready for a second wedding. Cary Grant plays the husband; John Howard, the potential husband, and James Stewart, a society magazine reporter out to "do" the story. Ruth Hussey as Stewart's aid and Roland Young are cast. "The Get-Away" with Donna Reed and Robert Sterling is the second attraction.

Union Takes Vote on Railroad Strike

GEN. JOHNSON:

WASHINGTON—William Knudsen is reported to have said that next year 53 per cent of American industry will be engaged in defense work. He certainly cannot mean 53 per cent of the number of establishments. A few score of big corporations are getting by far the bulk of all this business, and about 140,000, or by far the bulk of other concerns, are getting nothing and are beginning a process of closing up for want of materials.

Johnson

I have a report from the Illinois division of the association of small business men resulting from a statewide canvass by questionnaire. The results are shocking.

In the first place only 26 per cent of these little factories were entirely adaptable to defense work, 62 per cent adaptable only in part and 12 per cent not adaptable at all. Of the adaptable plants, 73 per cent have applied for defense work, and 22 per cent have had some business.

Of 27 per cent of the employers asking how many employes had been laid off the answers ranged from 1 to 75 per cent—and this process of national economic suicide has just begun.

Unless these "little fellows" can get defense orders or raw materials, 64 per cent of them report that they will have to go out of business and the other 36 per cent of answers were only a little less lugubrious.

The principal raw materials required for them to carry on in 45 per cent of cases is steel; 20 per cent, aluminum; 19 per cent, brass; 13 per cent, copper; 12 per cent, zinc; 10 per cent, wire; 8 per cent, chemical; and 12 per cent, miscellaneous.

On the availability of steel the president of the American Iron and Steel institute reports our ingot steel production will be 82,000,000 tons and that for this calendar year defense requirements, including Britain and Canada, will be 18,000,000 tons.

Next year the defense requirements may be somewhat higher, but so will ingot production—by 6,000,000 tons. From these figures it is deduced that 67,000,000 tons for domestic non-defense production or, excluding exports to countries other than Britain and Canada, 64,000,000 tons.

This is more steel than has ever been used in this country. Even in 1940 domestic production including defense was only 55,000,000 tons.

No such figures are available for copper but, considering the tremendous increases in copper-producing capacity, following the discovery of the vast African deposits, the easily accessible and very rich copper deposits in South America, and the long depression restriction on the use of copper, it is very hard to deduce an over-all copper shortage.

Especially is this apparent when it is remembered that Great Britain and America, which control access to these great storehouses, are not yet in shooting war at anywhere near the rate of expenditure that we had in 1917 and 1918—when, after just such a "shortage" scare as we are having now—it was proved that there was no real shortage at all.

A good deal of evidence points to slap-bash methods in OPM and failure by research to find out just what supplies were available, just where it is most needed, and when.

This is a deadly serious business. It is none too early to begin jumping up and down and raising Cain about it.

CANTON STRIKE HALTS WORK ON DEFENSE PLANT

$20,000,000 Naval Ordnance Project Tied Up By Machinist Union.

(By International News Service)

CANTON—A strike called at the $20,000,000 United States naval ordnance plant today halted work on gun turrets and gun mount parts and forced 2,000 construction workers and 425 production workers into idleness.

The strike, called by the AFL-International Association of Machinists, followed a strike vote taken at a secret meeting in protest against failure of the National Labor Relations board to recognize the union as the sole bargaining agent.

Lieut. Commander Robert Mathews, inspector in charge of the plant, said the plant's three main gates were picketed by about 10 or 15 pickets at each gate.

Although construction workers were not on strike, Lieutenant Mathews said they remained outside the gates in sympathy with the production employes' strike.

Roy V. Gavert, official of the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing company, operators of the plant, who earlier had announced that the company was not concerned with the work stoppage because the company was engaged in construction work.

Union spokesmen revealed that refusal of the NLRB to recognize the AFL union as the sole bargaining agent had resulted in "raids" by the CIO-United Electrical, Radio and Machine workers union.

Lieutenant Mathews said there was no disturbance at the plant and that most of the 274 office workers had been allowed to enter, along with military attaches.

Although construction work is not completed, he said, it was possible for workers to proceed with production of gun turrets and gun mount part because the shop buildings have been finished.

Unfinished are an office building and a cafeteria.

"Just when the plant will be able to start full production depends on when we can get machines to turn out the full quota work," Lieutenant Mathews said. "However, we are capable now of keeping the production workers busy."

In addition to the 425 production workers, the plant employs 255 trainees and 274 office workers. When completed the plant will employ 2,000 machine operators.

Little Red Riding Hood is still the most popular character in storybook land according to the picture contest based on familiar characters in children's books conducted by the Mansfield Public library in connection with Book week. Of the 115 children participating in the contest which called for identification of 40 pictures, 109 children correctly placed Little Red Riding Hood. Old Mother Goose was next with 104 correct answers and Robin Hood, a close runner-up with 102. The winner of the contest will be announced at the Saturday story hour at the library at 9:30 a. m.

LEADERS MEET FOR DECISION OVER DISPUTE

Consider Nine-Cent Raise, Further Negotiation, or Rail Tie-up.

CHICAGO — (AP) — Representatives of 900,000 railroad employes in non-operating crafts assembled today to decide the critical question of whether to carry out a strike for higher pay.

A group of 1,556 general chairmen of the 14 non-operating brotherhoods was charged with the duty of calling a strike, accepting the recommendations of President Roosevelt's fact finding board or of seeking further compromise of their wage dispute with the managements.

Their spokesman, Bert M. Jewell, said, however, it was unlikely and decision would be announced before tomorrow.

The fact finding board recommended an increase of 9 cents an hour, averaging 13½ per cent, for these unionists—clerks, telegraphers and similar crafts—but they had demanded 30 to 40 cents an hour more than the 35 to 85 they now receive.

No official expression of opinion has come from the non-operating groups since the fact finding board's recommendations were announced Nov. 5.

The board recommended a wage boost of 7½ per cent for 350,000 members of five operating brotherhoods who had demanded a flat 30 per cent increase. The lowest paid now receiving $5.06 a day.

The operating brotherhoods "flatly rejected" the proposal and one of their chiefs, A. F. Whitney of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, said they would begin a previously authorized strike Dec. 5, the legally required 30 days after the fact finding board's report went to the president.

Chiefs of the other four operating brotherhoods have not yet officially confirmed the strike date but there were indications the Big 5 also would have a formal statement tomorrow.

BROADWAY

—By Dorothy Kilgallen

Speaking For Myself.

I THINK it is time we again look up the subject of the chorus girl, she being Broadway's most decorative and least understood adjunct.

It is surprising but true that even in this day and age the old-fashioned or Lurid Approach to the chorine is still the most prevalent among stage door johnnies; they have been convinced by fiction and their grandfathers that the way to a chorine's heart is straight through a mink coat, a magnum of champagne, and a chafing dish of lobster Newburg, and no matter how many beauties they see sitting on drug store stools, eating today's blue plate special and wearing a $14.98 number, grandpop's version of the showgirl sticks in their minds.

Kilgallen

For the benefit of these deluded gentlemen I have compiled a handy Guide To The Chorus Girl's Heart, or "How To Make Good Without Orchids." The rules are simple; here they are:

1—If you want to be assured of getting a date, ask her to have dinner with you on a matinee day. Chorines have to eat out then, and they'd rather be sitting over a steak in Lindy's at 7 than over terrapin in a plush saloon at midnight.

2—When you're in doubt about a present for birthdays or Christmas, don't send her a fancy piece of jewelry that makes everything else she's got on look cheap. Give her a gift certificate to a good, but not too-too exclusive, store, and she can get something she really needs and wants.

3—You can give her a good book now and then. A lot of girls who dance in shows have pretty high I. Q.'s—maybe even as high as yours. And even if she doesn't open the book, her friends are impressed.

4—When you visit her apartment, bring groceries. Not roses.

5—Don't kid her about chorusing being an easy job. Sure, she can sleep until noon now, but she didn't get in that chorus line sleeping. She had to fight her way through 400 other beauties and had to rehearse four killing weeks for a show that got mixed—or even nixed—notices.

6—Always treat a chorus girl like a lady and she won't treat you like a playboy.

And that's all, brother. Paste that in your hat. You're on your own.

I wish the illustrators wouldn't make the soldiers and sailors on those ads look so pretty. The boys in uniform ought to look tough, not gorgeous. . . . Trend-of-the-times observation: Rita Hayworth has more autograph kids following her every move than any other movie star in town, and there are plenty in town. . . . With her hair in a long bob instead of that Tower-of-Pisa pompadour, Gloria Vanderbilt, jr., looks just like her mother—even more like her mother's twin sister. . . . Wonder why Mary Small doesn't get a job in a Broadway musical? . . . I love football games but on rainy Saturday afternoons I suddenly love the movies even more. . . . I guess I will never get over my crush on Robert Benchley. I think I will have to give it to neighbor Elsa Maxwell to add to her list of famous unrequited loves.

'RABBIT FEVER' REPORTED LOW

Hunters Warned on Handling of Game; Increase In Cases Feared.

COLUMBUS—(U.P.)—Dr. R. H. Markwith, state health director, said today that the number of cases of tularemia or "rabbit fever" reported this year is "encouragingly low" but predicted "a considerable increase" before the end of the year.

Dr. Markwith said that during the first nine months of 1941 only 14 cases of tularemia were reported while during 1940 at least 55 cases of the disease and one death were recorded.

"Although the rabbit hunting seasons starts Saturday we do not expect any material increase in the number of tularemia cases until near the end of the year," he said.

Dr. Markwith said that although tularemia had been found in many types of warm blooded animals and birds, wild rabbits are the source of more than 90 per cent of the human cases. The germ is transmitted through a break or scratch in the skin.

Dr. Markwith advised hunters to "be suspicious" of rabbits which seem sluggish or sick, to cook all game thoroughly and never to place unprotected hands inside a wild rabbit.

GIVEN FUNDS

County Receives $15,784 In State Allocation.

Richland county today had received $15,784 in state and federal funds, representing six separate allocations to the county and its subdivisions for local government operation, relief, aid to dependent children, and aid to the blind.

Largest check was for $9,115 as the county's share of state sales tax money for November. Another was for $2,764, covering the county share of beer, malt and wort tax receipts.

Other allocations included $3,391 in state and federal funds for aid to dependent children and $514 in state and federal money for aid to the blind.

CATCHES COLD AT ARLINGTON

F. D. R. Ill After Bearing Head At Armistice Services.

WASHINGTON—(INS)—As a result of doffing his overcoat and hat in the chilly amphitheatre at Arlington national cemetery yesterday while delivering his Armistice day address, President Roosevelt developed a head cold which today confined him to his oval room study in the living quarters of the White House.

Rear Admiral Ross T. McIntire, White House physician, was not concerned about his patient, who was running no temperature. As a precautionary measure, however, the doctor suggested that he remain at the house today and cancel any engagements.

TOLL REMOVED FROM BRIDGE

Cincinnati-Newport Span Now Dedicated to Public.

CINCINNATI — (INS) — The Kentucky highway bridge from Newport to Cincinnati was toll free today, providing travelers with the first free river crossing in history.

The span, bought in 1935 from the Louisville and Nashville railroad, and then remodeled, was dedicated to the public yesterday by Gov. Keen Johnson of Kentucky and numerous officials of that state.

Also taking part were Mayor James G. Stewart of Cincinnati and C. O. Sherrill, Cincinnati city manager. The bridge probably will be named for J. Lyter Donaldson, Kentucky highway commissioner, it was said.

CLOSED DOWN

Strike Halts Work on Tanks at New Jersey Factory.

NEW BRUNSWICK—(AP)—Carl Doktorich, president of the CIO-United Auto Workers of America Local 824, asserted today a strike had "shut down completely" the Mack Manufacturing corporation plant, where 2,000 were employed on $10,000,000 worth of army tank transmissions.

Doktorich said nearly all of the 1,400 day-shift workers had made the strike "one hundred per cent effective" by respecting a small picket line.

VANCE RITES SET

Funeral services for Marion A. Vance of near Lucas, who died late Monday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Autie Griffetts, will be held at her home two miles east of Lucas, at 1 p. m. Friday, with Rev. C. R. Burkett, pastor of the Church of God of Ashland, officiating. Burial will be in Mt. Zion cemetery.

SLOW-DOWN BY CONGRESS PUTS DAMPER ON PRICE CONTROL PLAN

WASHINGTON—(U.P.)—Congressional plans to begin a "stand by" period with only semi-weekly meetings soon appeared today to doom administration hope of final action on price control legislation this year.

Senate Democratic Leader Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky doubted that the senate could achieve an informal recess, but said it may soon slow down its work.

House leaders plan to call up the price control bill as soon as the pending neutrality revision measure is disposed of. Debate on price control may begin Friday, but more likely next week.

Sen. Robert A. Taft, R., O., a member of the senate banking and currency committee, today criticized the house bill's provision relating to the regulation of farm prices, but agreed with administration supporters of the bill that wage regulation should not be included.

"I see no reason why farm prices should not be limited to parity," Taft said. "The provision relating to prices from 1919 to 1929 would boost some prices to 130 to 140 per cent of parity and I think it would destroy the force of the bill."

Taft opposed the general theory of placing a ceiling over wages.

"Government fixing of a maximum wage seems to me to imply the right to force men to work at those wages," he said. "It would interfere much more with individual liberty than price control. I don't see how it could be enforced without the adoption of Hitler methods."

ASKS PROBE

Whitney Urges Investigation of Railroad Board.

CLEVELAND — (UP) — A. F. Whitney, president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, today asked congress to investigate the railroad arbitration board on the basis of its recent decision on wage increases requested by the trainmen.

In individual letters to each congressman, Whitney said the board's decision, granting only part of the demanded increases "is so contrary to the spirit of the law under which it was created, and so adverse to fundamental national policies, that it might be desirable for the senate or the house of representatives to make a thorough and exhaustive investigation of this board and all matters handled by it while its members were on the government's payroll."

He criticized the board for recommending what he termed, "economic cure-alls."

FATHER DIES

John Mehock, Dad of Athletic Director, Succumbs.

John Mehock, 72, father of Harry Mehock, athletic director of Mansfield schools, died last night at his home in Streator, Ill., three weeks after suffering a cerebral hemorrhage.

Besides his son, he is survived by two daughters.

Harry Mehock left this morning for Streator where his wife has been for the past two weeks. Funeral services have been arranged for Friday.

CONVENE HERE

School Superintendents Meet, Tour City's Schools.

Approximately 30 school superintendents from northwestern Ohio cities will meet in the Mansfield-Leland hotel today to discuss new curriculum schedules in elementary schools.

Under the direction of W. L. Miller, Mansfield school superintendent, the meeting will be addressed by Dr. Walter Collins of Columbus, director of the division of instruction in the state department of education.

Following the dinner and talk by Collins, the meeting will be thrown open to round table discussion. A tour of Mansfield schools will follow.

JAP DIPLOMAT RESUMES TRIP

Kusuru's Plane Takes Off After Delay of Two Days.

MIDWAY ISLAND — (INS) — Delayed for two days at this little mid-Pacific airbase by engine trouble which grounded the huge China Clipper, Saburo Kurusu, Japanese diplomat enroute to Washington with an urgent message from his government, was expected to resume his journey today with Honolulu as the next scheduled stop.

Kurusu said he had found the delay a pleasant one since it gave him the chance to rest. He pointed out that he and his secretary had left Tokyo last Wednesday on only 20 hours' notice.

Barring further delay by storms along the route, the China Clipper is expected to reach San Francisco on Friday.

CONTROL ALCOHOL

OPM Protects Anti-Freeze for U. S. Defense Needs.

WASHINGTON —(INS)— OPM moved today to impose additional control over methyl alcohol, and took steps to prevent its delivery for automobile anti-freeze and other purposes until higher rated defense needs are met.

Deliveries of methyl, which is an important factor in the manufacture of plastics, were prohibited if they would increase inventory beyond a 30-day supply at the current rate of use.

WAR ON WASTE

Clevelanders Sign Pledges to Buy Carefully.

CLEVELAND—(AP)—Today being "War Against Waste day" of Civilian Defense week, the civilian defense information booth on Public Square is distributing forms for anti-waste pledges.

Citizens who sign the pledges promise to "buy carefully," "take good care of the things I have" and "waste nothing."

Defense Project Strike Settled

SAN DIEGO, Calif. —(AP)— An Armistice Day peace sends 2,164 AFL craftsmen back to work at noon today on $25,000,000 in navy and marine defense projects in the San Diego area.

At the request of Federal Conciliator Harry Malcom, the navy modifeid its ultimatum to the strikers that they be back on the job at 11 a. m. (Mansfield time.) The four-hour grace enables the men to receive a report on the settlement.

The navy earlier had announced that if strikers did not report at 8 a. m., their jobs would be filled by available labor, and the union men given any jobs remaining at noon.

A spokesman said this concession constituted the only recession from the navy's original position as stated by Rear Admiral Charles A. Blakely, 11th distirct commandant.

'MISSING GUN' DEATH SOLVED

Coroner Decides Shooting At Kenton Was Suicide.

KENTON —(AP)— The shotgun death of William Cosart, 40, which puzzled authorities, was ruled suicide by Coroner John A. Mooney today.

Cosart was discovered in his bed Monday night, a would in his body, but no gun was found.

Today, the coroner said, Les Hildreth, neighbor of the dead man, said Cosart borrowed his weapon on the pretext of going hunting. Finding later that them an had slain himself, Hildreth took the gun away fearing that its presence might incriminate him, the coroner said he was informed.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

"OH, OF COURSE," I agreed quickly, as I would have agreed to any plan which would keep Harry Underwood at his wife's side, instead of obeying her demand that he escort me back to my hotel. Then the full force of what he had said came to me, and I faced him in sudden alarm.

"You mean there is some especial danger you fear for Lillian?" I asked.

His lips twisted in a mirthless smile

"Use your haid, Lady Fair!" he admonished me, in grim travesty of a frequent adjuration employed by a former colored cook of Lillian's. "D'ye think these babies holding Marion are playing a game of cat's cradle or tiddle-dy-winks? You may be sure from this last performance that they would mightily like to get Lillian also into their clutches. Therefore, I do not propose to leave her unguarded 'for the duration.' "

I steeled myself to say something which I knew had potential dynamite in it.

"Then, of course, you mean to stay here yourself," I said conscious that if my voice was not tremulous, my knees were.

His attentive look at me held no resentment, only a melancholy evasiveness.

"I trust that will be possible," he said "If circumstances compel otherwise, you may be sure that your father will provide entirely adequate substitutes."

His voice showed me the futility of proceeding along that line, and when I had managed a feeble "of course," he put a friendly hand beneath my arm

"We'll telephone from the phone downstairs," he said. "No use going back into Lil's room."

Finds Phone Is Dead.

He went to the phone in the hall, took down the receiver, waited for a second with a puzzled and uneasy expression in his eyes, then jiggled the receiver up and down.

"It's absolutely dead," he said, hanging up the receiver.

I found a sudden difficulty in breathing, but managed to get out a tremulous "Cut?"

"I don't know," he said, "and I haven't time to find out. Have you that little silencer pistol with you?"

"Yes," I answered "in my handbag. I always carry it"

"Good girl!" he commented "Come on back to Lillian's room"

Behind Locked Doors.

He fairly raced me up the stairs, gave only a preliminary warning knock, and then shoved me through the door ahead of him, locking it behind him.

"I haven't gone suddenly bats, Sweet," he told Lillian, "but I'm taking no chances The telephone's gone dead, and it may have been cut. You know what that means."

Subconsciously I had known what Lillian's reaction to this statement would be, knew that her husband had counted upon her indomitable fighting spirit. Danger of any sort is like a slogan to her.

"Probably those men are coming here," she said, as calmly as if she were saying that the grocer was on his way to the house. "What do you want me to do?"

He was at the windows before she began speaking, and he closed one that was open, locked them all in both rooms securely and pulled down the shades. Then he inspected the bathroom.

"This is probably the tritest sort of melodrama," he said, "but I'm taking no chances on those babies. You have your pistol, Lil?"

"Yes, within reach," she answered.

"And Madge has hers. Don't hesitate to use them if you have to If they should get in and come up here, barricade yourselves in the bathroom, and lie flat on the floor or in the tub. And keep your chin up, Sweet."

He kissed her warmly, but hastily, and turned to the outer door But Lillian was at his side before he had turned the key, and was shaking his arm almost savagely.

"You're not going to leave here," she said.

HOROSCOPE

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Thursday, Nov. 13.

Judging by the lunar transits this should be a very lovely day, with much of pleasant, agreeable and gratifying character coming to happy culminations. While business may be active and there may be traveling about, change, correspondence and the making of contracts or agreements, it is probable that the domestic, social, affectional or cultural life will enlist the major attention. It is a propitious time for pushing all such objectives, as the public is in a mood to lend its most generous co-operation, especially where social welfare is concerned. In a private affiliation discretion is enjoined.

If It Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a lively and profitable year, with change, travel, new contracts and agreements, not only in a commercial way but in the promotion of artistic, cultural or professional enterprises. All affairs in connection with group, public or social welfare should be under flourishing signs, although the major interest may revolve around social, affectional or cultural engagements. In purely private relations circumspect conduct is advised

A child born on this day should be exceptionally versatile in literary, artistic, musical and artistic lines in which it may attain public recognition

"The Authority on Authorities"

IS HE NEEDED LATER?

When you think of ruffing a trick with a high honor, such as an ace or king, it is always well to consider whether you will need him later for a second ruff, which is more likely to be over-ruffed than the first one. If you see that you will not, then go ahead and use him for the first ruff. But if you are going to have to ruff two losers out of your hand, it will usually pay you to use a smaller trump the first time and the big one on the next turn.

West led his spade K and switched to his diamond 7 to prevent ruffing of spades. South won that with the A and led the spade 6 for a ruff. He put on the diamond K to make sure East would not over-ruff He had decided he would try to dispose of his third spade on a set-up club, which he hoped to establish by means of one ruff Next he cashed the club K and A and led a third club from dummy, ruffing with his diamond Q. Just notice how impossible that plan would have been, even if the suit had broken evenly. He could not have got into the dummy after dropping the trumps, to use the club suit, and his loss of a heart trick, after trumps were gone, would have enabled West to run spades on him.

At another table of the same duplicate, with about the same bidding, and the same first two leads, South, after winning the second one with his diamond A, led the spade 6 and ruffed with the dummy's diamond 8 He decided to count West for a seven-card suit, not one of eight cards, so that East would have to follow suit twice. When this worked, he came to his own hand with the club K and led the spade 7, ruffing with the diamond K. This shut East out from an over-ruff. The heart J was then led, finessed to West's K The latter returned his club 4 to the A, and South's hand was now solid, with three more tricks in hearts and three in diamonds.

A boy had been sent on a boy's errand, leaving a man for use on the later man's job.

CITY'S ARTISTS SHOW WORKS AT LIBRARY EXHIBIT

Display To Take Place Next Week In Connection With National Observance.

Mansfield will see its first exhibition of painting and sculpture by local artists next week when the newly organized Art Council headed by Miss Marjorie Campbell of Mansfield Senior high school sponsors a public showing in the Mansfield Public library as an observance of National Art week.

The exhibit will be shown in the Larwill room and also in the main reading room of the library, beginning Sunday, Nov. 16, when the Art Council and contributing artists will be present to receive visitors from 3 to 5 p. m. and offer information concerning the showing.

At least a dozen or more Mansfield artists will hang their work for the exhibition which will include approximately 30 pictures in oils and watercolors. Members of the Art Council formed a month ago by Miss Campbell will exhibit their work including Mrs. Larry Twitchell, Mrs. Paul Swank, Mrs. Dan Haber, Roland Miller, George Biddle and Miss Campbell.

Exhibitions will also be presented by Miss Frances Hanson, Miami university student; Mrs. John Conard, Mrs. Henry J. Paulson, Howard Taylor and Duke Yoakum.

Any Mansfield artist is eligible to enter the exhibition, Miss Campbell announced and arrangements for entry may be made by calling her either at the Mansfield Senior high school or at her residence, 119 Carpenter road.

As in exhibitions held in other cities the Mansfield showing will include a number of works for sale as well as simply for showing. This plan is in accordance with that established by the National Art committee in the hopes of developing a year-around market for the works of local artists.

National Art week, inaugurated last year, has, as its chairman Thomas J. Watson, president of the International Business Machines corporation of New York. His appointment was made by President Roosevelt.

Sport Podge

by REX HESS

The official basketball guide for 1941-42, sponsored by the national basketball committee, is just off the press, and includes among its feature articles a discussion on zone and man-for-man defenses by former Mansfielder Claire Bee, the national champion maker of Long Island U.

In as comprehensive an article on the subject as I've seen, Bee tells the strong and weak points of each defensive system, the best offenses to work against them, and winds up by declaring that every team should be able to use both systems, or a combination of both.

Coaches, players and fans should find a lot to interest them in Bee's article.

Pittsburgh's upset victory over Fordham last Saturday has encouraged Ashland Scribe Bill McKee to hope that another little fellow, Galion high, might rise up and smite down N. C. O. league-leading Marion this week, giving Ashland the league title.

And the Pittsburgh-Fordham game could give Shelby encouragement in the Whippets' Friday fracas here with mighty Mansfield. Upsets still happen, but can they happen here?

* * *

The Tyger worried by a Whippet?

You think not? O. K. Just skip it.

Madison's growth to a class "A" school athletically has aroused some interest in the neighboring precincts.

"Nig" Murray, the Wooster scrivener, offers his condolences, pointing out that it's a case of a good class "B" team being caught in the middle as it is forced to take on the tougher class "A" competition.

But McKee at Ashland suggests the time may come when Madison will be invited to join the North Central Ohio league and "big" Marion invited to resign, much as Mansfield was encouraged to quit some years ago.

* * *

Ashland is willing to continue playing Marion, which hasn't lost a league game in three seasons, but some of the smaller schools in the loop are reported kicking about playing a school the size of Marion.

Since Shelby is the only N. C. O. team to continue gridiron relations with Mansfield, I doubt if the Whippets are joining in the "oust Marion" sentiment.

And maybe I'm being just a bit naive, but I really believe that Shelby's announced intention of discontinuing Tuesday night basketball is the only reason the Whippets dropped Mansfield from their cage schedule this winter.

Mansfield Changes Lineup

Doolittle Takes Over Fullback Position.

LINEUP of the Mansfield high Tygers will have three changes when they meet Shelby's Whippets at Stadium field Friday night, Coach Paul Snyder announced today.

Bill Doolittle will be shifted from blocking back to fullback where he'll continue to call signals. John Butler will take over the blocking back duties, and Jim Burrage will give Joe Romano a rest at left end.

Snyder explained that Doolittle comes closer to being the "scatback" type of fullback that made Adam Brandt a star in that position until he was forced out by injury in the Massillon game.

He also pointed out that the return of Chuck Condon to the running position will give him the strength at that spot which the Tygers boasted in early season when Condon and Ken Krupp were dividing the duties at that post.

Joe Romano's knees are still puffed up from the beating they took in the Canton McKinley game, but he may be in shape to play by Friday night. Joe wants to be sure of playing in one of the remaining two games, and has indicated that it'll be okay with him if it's the Fremont game on Thanksgiving day. Further injury to his knees Friday night might keep him out of the Fremont tilt.

Although the dope, based on season's records of the two teams, indicates the Tygers should have no difficulty with Shelby, Coach Snyder is taking no chances on having Mansfield's Richland county rivals spring an upset. So he's been working the Tygers hard this week in preparation for this game.

* * *

Shelby defeated Mansfield the last time three years ago when the Whippets piled up a 26-13 victory. Realizing that they are going into Friday's game as the decided "under-dog," and with no more games on the schedule, the Whippets are prepared to shoot the works, and use every trick play they have in the bag in an effort to upset the Tygers.

* * *

Friday's game may be the last in the long rivalry which dates back to 1901. It was reported in Shelby today that the score of this week's tilt may go a long way in deciding whether little Shelby will continue relations with their big neighbor.

Beeber Rolls 609 In Globe League

Frank Beeber rolled a 609 total on games of 213-181-215 to pace the Globe Steel league at Colony alleys last night, but his teammate, Al Stirtzinger, turned in high game of 226.

Di Maggio Elected Most Valuable League Player

By DAVE HOFF

CHICAGO — (AP) — The amazing six-year career of Joe DiMaggio with the New York Yankees—in which he never hit lower than .323, never walloped less than 29 home runs a season and never drove in fewer than 125 runs—has a new angle, his selection for the second time as the American league's most valuable player.

The slugging outfielder, who set the baseball world on fire with a record of hits in 56 consecutive games during the past season, was voted again by the Baseball Writers Association of America for the award he received in 1939.

The committee of 24 writers, with Tom Swope of the Cincinnati Post as their chairman, voted unanimously for DiMaggio, Ted Williams of the Boston Red Sox and Bob Feller of the Cleveland Indians.

Fifteen committeemen cast first-place votes for Joe and the other nine approved him for second. Eight nominated Williams for first, 14 for second and two for third. Feller was named by 14 for third, six for fourth, one for fifth, two for sixth and one for seventh.

The only player besides DiMaggio and Williams to collect a first-place ballot was Thornton Lee of the Chicago White Sox, named by one writer. Lee was recognized for his 22 pitching victories and Williams for his .406 batting average, which led the league.

Neither league's most valuable player of 1940 repeated. Frank McCormick of Cincinnati, honored in the National league a year ago, did not receive a single vote in the 1941 balloting. Hank Greenberg of the Detroit Tigers, the American league's most valuable player a year ago, spent most of the 1941 season in the army and had no opportunity to win the award again.

Di Maggio also played for the American league in the annual all-star game for the sixth time in his six-year major league career.

The 23-year-old Williams, in his third season in the major leagues, outstripped Cecil Travis of Washington, his nearest rival for the batting title, by 47 points. Feller, also 23, pitched the Indians to victory 25 times but was the loser in 13 contests.

With 14 points counting for a first place vote, nine for a second, eight for a third and so on, DiMaggio totaled 291 points. Williams had 254, Feller 174 and Lee 144. Players receiving 10 or more points were:

Charley Keller, New York 126; Travis of Washington, 101; Joe Gordon, New York, 60; Jeff Heath, Cleveland, 37; Heber, Newsom Boston, 32; Roy Cullenbine, St. Louis, 29; Joe Cronin, Boston, 26; Sam Chapman, Philadelphia, 25; Bill Dickey, New York, 13; Tommy Henrich, New York, 16; Barney McCosky, Detroit, 12; Ted Lyons, Chicago, 12; Dick Siebert, Philadelphia, 10; Lou Boudreau, Cleveland, 10.

Loudonville Beats Rittman

Spoils Perfect Slate For Final Opponent.

LOUDONVILLE — Coach Leo Grimes' Loudonville high Red Birds closed their football season in a blaze of glory last night by handing Rittman its only defeat of the fall campaign 13-7 in an Armistice Day game under the lights here.

The victory gave Loudonville a record of six wins and two losses compared to six victories, two defeats and one tie in 1940.

The Birds scored on a sustained 60-yard drive in the first period, highlighted by two long smashes into the line of 15 and 20 yards by Ken Nouse, and a pass from Jim Young to Bud Darling that put the ball on the one-yard line. Nouse plunged over for the touchdown.

Nouse's punting, which has been good all season, was exceptionally so last night, and kept Rittman in the hole throughout the first half. This led to Loudonville's taking the ball on the Rittman 40 for another touchdown march in the second period.

One first down carried the ball to the 24-yard line where Nouse passed to Marietta for a touchdown. Then Marietta passed to Darling for extra point.

Rittman came charging back in the third period, but Loudonville stopped 'em on the 12 yard line on fourth down. However, the Birds were penalized to the one-yard line for roughing on the play, and Rupp bucked for the touchdown and extra point.

Rittman continued to be dangerous through the rest of the second half but Loudonville held, and with two minutes to play stalled for time as Nouse took the ball on four plunges into the line.

Touchdown Tactics

By LOWELL 'RED' DAWSON
Tulane Football Coach.

THE SITUATION: It's your ball, fourth down on your opponents' 48-yard line with a yard and a half to go and four minutes of the second quarter remaining. The score is 0-0. Both teams appear to be evenly matched on the offense and defense. The opposition has been fairly successful with passes and has shown running strength. Your own passers have not been so effective because of a wind against them in this quarter, but the running attack has been consistently good since the kickoff, especially on reverses and line bucks. You have a good passer, a bruising fullback, and an accurate and dependable kicker. That's your situation. Now, given the following choices

RED DAWSON

WHAT WOULD YOUD DO?

1. Pass?
2. Run a reverse?
3. Send that fullback into the line?
4. Punt?
5. Try a fake pass and run?

(Answer In Tomorrow's Paper)

YESTERDAY'S PROBLEM
By HERBERT M. KOPF
Manhattan College Coach.

The SITUATION: Your team, trailing 7-6, has the ball on the opponents' 18-yard line. It is third down and there are only 20 seconds left to play in the game. You have held an offensive edge throughout and have made a steady march to reach your present position. You have good backs, a tricky offense and also a good field goal kicker. Remember, third down, 20 seconds left. That's the situation

ANSWER

I would attempt a field goal, because three points are enough to win. There is enough time for the completion of this play and Team A is close enough to the goal posts to have a good chance of success. If Team A passed and it was intercepted there would be no further chance to score. If Team A ran and didn't make the 18 yards time might run out before another play could be tried. A trick play might boomerang for a big loss and a fake pass and run might fall short of making the necessary distance.

Jaycees and City News Decide Grid Argument

Benefit Tilt For High School Athletic Fund Scheduled

GALION JAYCEES and Mansfield City News gridders finally have gotten together on a date for their long discussed football game. It's to be Sunday afternoon at Galion.

The argument over who has been running out on whom is over, but the argument over who has the best team will wax hot and heavy for the rest of the week and will be decided only when the two clubs clash on the Galion high school field.

Galion fans, pointing to the undefeated record of their Jaycees tell you to take a look at the Mansfield record which lists defeats at the hands of the South Akron Awnings, Steubenville and Minerva.

* * *

And the Mansfielders tell you that when the Galions start playing teams like the Awnings, Steubenville and Minerva, then they'll have a right to boast about their record. They hint very broadly that the Jaycees have been playing "setups" and declare it's no great trick to run up a record on that kind of schedule.

"Yes," retort the Galions, "but we defeated Toledo, Lorain and Ft. Wayne by bigger scores than did Mansfield, and we'll beat Mansfield."

All of which drums up the biggest natural of the pro season in this section of the state, beginning a rivalry which may rank with the Mansfield-Crestline arguments of a few years back.

* * *

Fred Rizzo, manager of the City News club, in announcing the Sunday game today said a return game may be booked here if the weather permits. It would be Galion's first trip away from the home gridiron.

* * *

Sunday's game will be a benefit affair for the Galion high school athletic fund in return for the use of the high school field by the Jaycees this fall.

New London Loses Last Game, 25-0

NEW LONDON — Norwalk St. Paul griders ended the New London high school football season by running up a 25-0 score on the Wildcat team.

Intercepting passes, driving through the line and skirting the ends the Norwalk team tallied in the second, third and fourth quarters.

Of nine games played this season, New London has won three.

Ohio Seniors In Home Bow

Hallabrin, 11 Others Play Last Home Game.

COLUMBUS — (AP) — Nearly a third of Ohio State university's 40-man football squad will make a farewell appearance in Ohio stadium Saturday as the Bucks meet Illinois in a homecoming game.

Among the 12 seniors making their final bow to a home crowd will be the complete first string backfield—Fullback Jack Graf, Halfbacks Tom Kinkade and Dick Fisher, and Quarterback Johnny Hallabrin.

Others moving out this year are Capt. Jack Stephenson, Jim Daniell and Thornton Dixon, tackles; Fritz Howard and Ed Bruckner, guards; Pete Hershberger and Sam Fox, ends, and George Zaviztoske, halfback.

Four members of the present squad are juniors and the remaining 24 are sophomores.

As the Bucks went through a stiff Armistice day workout Hershberger suffered a recurrence of an old knee injury in scrimmage, and Trainer Tucker Smith reported he probably could be used only sparingly against Illinois.

Yuncker's Contest Closes Friday

Mansfield nimrods, preparing their eyes for the coming hunting season, have made 75 entries in the Yuncker sporting goods company word contest so far, company spokesmen said this morning.

All entries, they said, must be in the mails by 11 p.m., Friday, to be considered. The contest plan calls for entrants to find the largest possible number of words that can be constructed from the letters in the words "Yuncker's Redhead."

Judging will take place Sunday and announcement of results in Monday's News-Journal. So far one entry has been made of 720 words, but judges do not believe this one large enough to win.

Judges will be James Will, R. O. Davies and Bart Haley.

FRIENDLY HOUSE SENIOR NET LEAGUE HEADS MEET

With managers of the Friendly House senior Class A basketball league planning to meet Thursday at 7:30 p. m. at the settlement to draw up schedules for the winter's sport, Mike Wentz, Friendly House physical director, announced today that he has received an offer from a backer for a team.

Any team without a backer for the league play may contact him, Wentz said, and the chosen team will be given uniforms and their entry fee. Entry fee for each team is $5.

COLUMBUS — (AP) — With 10 weeks remaining to file entries, 5,207 teams are registered for the American Bowling Congress tournament beginning here March 3.

DISCOURAGING NEWS FURTHERS STOCK DECLINE

Tax Fears, Labor Problems, Far Eastern Crisis All Worry Traders.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK —(AP)— The news over the Armistice day recess had a somewhat pessimistic tinge for Wall Street today and stock market prices continued the slow decline of recent sessions.

Here and there losses ran to major fractions but leaders generally dipped only slightly and the list showed a few resistant spots near the second hour.

Bonds moved in a narrow range and commodities were mixed.

Brokers' customers could find little incentive for active participation in the market what with the concentration of speculative thinking on tax plans, the Far Eastern crisis and labor problems.

A trend which is giving increasing concern to business students was exemplified by a report of the commerce and industry association of New York indicating that thousands of employes of small manufacturers in the New York area may face unemployment within the next 90 days as a result of shutdowns caused by materials shortages.

The survey disclosed that of 142 manufacturers replying to the association's questionnaire, 117 already were having difficulty in obtaining sufficient quantities of essential supples or equapment.

ANNOUNCEMENT!
EARL E. LANDIS

For the past nine years I have been associated with the late Charles A. Fox in the painting and decorating business. In fact, I was working with him at the time of his tragic fall from the Masonic Provident building. At this time I wish to announce the continuation of the business on the same fair policy that Mr. Fox followed so many years. We hope that we may enjoy the consideration of old and new customers as in other years.

Flying Tackle Stops Ex-Con In Flight With Gems

CINCINNATI —(INS)— An ex-convict who said he had spent a $20,000 inheritance in night clubs was under arrest today because a newspaper truck driver brought him down with a neat flying tackle as he fled through downtown Cincinnati with $15,000 in jewels.

Police said the man gave his name as George Fiedler, 42, of Louisville, Ky. He entered a downtown jewelry store yesterday and asked to see some rings. Then, according to police, he diverted the clerk's attention, seized the rings and fled.

Patrolman Duard West took up the chase and pursued Fiedler through a department store and in and out of crowds. Herbert Duncan, the truck driver, saw what was happening and left his truck to make the tackle that brought Fiedler down.

Administration Leaders and Foes Intensify Drive For Showdown Votes.

the majority of Republicans against the bill, planned to lead a drive for Republican votes.

"I consider the neutrality act, which I opposed from the start, largely responsible for the revision and stress among the people today," he said.

Knutson declared opposition to the measure is increasing.

"More and more members say that a vote for this bill means war, and they have pledged their people not to put the country into war," he said.

The armed ship bill, which the senate amended, passed the house by a vote of 259 to 138, a margin of 121 votes. A switch of 61 members would be sufficient to reverse the result.

Memory of the passage of the draft extension bill last summer by a vote of 203 to 202—closest administration victory in the house since the European war started—haunted administration leaders. They are bending every effort to avoid a recurrence of that close vote.

Hold Joint Hearing — Richland and Knox county commissioners were scheduled to meet today in Mansfield for a final hearing on the proposed abandonment of County Line Road No. 23 between the two counties.

Speeders Fined — Lester M. Berry, Galion, and John Hyler, Crestline resident, were each fined $10 and costs for operating a motor vehicle at the rate of 60 miles an hour in the 35-mile zone by Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch in Municipal court today.

Kiwanis Speaker — David Cowles, superintendent of the bureau of investigation of the Cleveland police department, will be the speaker at tomorrow's meeting of the Kiwanis club at noon in the Mansfield-Leland hotel, Secretary C. S. Fernyak announced today.

Fined For Assault — Eugene Spain, 423 North Mulberry street, was fined $10 and costs by Municipal Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch today on a charge of assault and battery signed by his wife, Mrs. Margaret Spain. A sentence of 60 days in the county jail was suspended on good behavior.

Reports Office Theft—M. J. Bemiller, proprietor of the Economy Coal company, reported to police yesterday that his office at 36 West Surrey road had been broken into and $5 worth of nickels and pennies had been stolen from a cash drawer. Bemiller said that entry was made by breaking a glass in a window on the north side of the building and unlocking it.

TRAGIC STORY HAS HAPPY END

Girl Who Tried Suicide To Marry Sailor Met on Bench In Park.

that. They walked the streets all night, window-shopping on Fifth Avenue. "I'd pick out things I'd buy for Bill," she said. "Then he'd pick out things he'd buy for me. We had a wonderful time."

Bill left at dawn, promising to meet her that night, but he didn't come back. Instead, he sent another sailor with a note which said his ship was ordered to sea. The police found Josephine crying on the same bench. They locked her up and a reporter heard her story.

Hollywood heard the story too and gave Josephine $200 for it. Josephine's aunt, Mrs. Stanley Kurowski, of Clifton, N. J., also heard the story and took Josephine to live with her. But best of all, the Philadelphia navy yard heard about it and that's where Bill is assigned now.

Today he and this happiest of all brides-to-be are back together again and they'll be married in Passaic next Tuesday or Wednesday. They'll use that $200 for an apartment here.

"I don't feel lonely any more," said Josephine.

PASSES QUOTA

SHELBY—O'Brien post of the American Legion here today had gone over its membership quota of 98 members. The post signed 104 members so far.

The Strongest Bond in History Is Over on 4th & Mulberry Sts.

We like to advertise Defense Bonds in our ads because we know that the more bonds you buy, the sooner we'll have all this worry over with.

As we told one man the other day, we would rather see you buy that o'coat at $29.75 and buy a bond than to buy the $50 garment alone and leave Uncle Sam out in the cold.

Our o'coat prices let you afford both.
